PASHA TO ATTACK DARDANELLES

Causes Anxiety Among Allies

Attack by Turks for Possession of This Territory Being Prepared.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 20.—Information that Mustapha Kemal Pasha is preparing to launch an attack for possession of the Dardanelles in spite of exhortations by Keneral Pelle, French commissioner, is causing undisguised anxiety in allied military circles. It is not improbable that such an attack will be made before the end of the present week, the Turks taking advantage of the fact that the British have not yet concentrated their forces.

Danville Gasoline Pumps Are Giving Proper Measure

George W. Dyer who inspects the weights and measures in the city recently completed a test of all the gas filling stations in Danville to see if the gasoline pumps were delivering the full amount of fluid as registered on the indicators. It will be of interest to motorists to learn that every station in town is giving full measure to customers. In two instances it was found that the pumps were slightly out of order this resulting in customers getting more gas than what they actually paid for.

The city owns a new device which is the last word in measuring cans. This is an enameled receptacle with a long neck outside of which there appears a graduated scale and a tube resembling a thermometer and which is guaranteed to be accurate.

The inspector makes a round of the gas filling stations once a month and asks for five gallons of gasoline which is emptied into the container. As the fluid rises in the can the fluid in the tube mounts the graduated scale showing if more or less gasoline is been pumped than the amount asked for.

DR. CLAMANS CONDITION

Dr. Samuel B. Clemans, city bacteriologist who underwent a double operation at the General Hospital a fortnight ago is suffering a good deal of discomfort, but his general condition is no worse.

Dr. H. L. Freese of the State Board of Health will be here tomorrow to carry on the laboratory work here until Dr. Clamans has fully recovered.

Danville Shops Will Be Filled Again Tomorrow

About one hundred men employed in the Southern Railway and Danville and Western railway shops who have been on strike for more than ten weeks will return, under the new plan of settlement tomorrow. Many of the shops are being filled by the old men today but enquiries made this morning revealed that the local union men had decided not to go back to work until the replacements had an opportunity of relinquishing their positions.

Under the agreement, the men will return to work on the wage scale of July 1, as laid down by the Railroad Labor Board, with the seniority rights unimpaired. The shopmen who were hired by the railroad during the strike will be dismissed as the strikers return.

The negotiations for the settlement have been in progress since Saturday, at which time no agreement could be reached owing to the fact that the strikers urged the inclusion of a clause for the immediate dismissal of all strike-breakers.

It was learned this afternoon that the federated shop crafts would hold a meeting this afternoon, by which time it was expected a message would have been received from the general chairman, J. M. Ellis, authorizing a resumption of work. It is further understood that the head mechanics of the two shops have been instructed to give the transportation home of such men as have been employed during the strike.

Would Give Weeks Power

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—A resolution authorizing the secretary of war to use his discretion in the lease for a period not exceeding 50 years nitrate plant numbers one, two & nitrate plants numbers one and two and the Waco quarry at Muscle Shoals at a dollar a year each on the condition they shall operate at presente capacity on the production of fertilizer components for sale to the public at a price not to exceed eight per cent profit, was introduced into the House today by Representative Hull, Republican, of Iowa.

BOLIVIA AND CHILE NOW AT ODDS

Relations Reach A Grave Stage

Serious Difficulties Threaten Unless Friendly Power Mediates or League Takes Hand.

GENEVA, Sept. 20.—Relations between Bolivia and Chile are such that "grave difficulties" threaten unless mediation by a friendly power or arbitration by the League of Nations is secured. This declaration was made in a letter received by the secretary of the League Assembly from Alfredo Gutierrez, Bolivian delegate.

LAWYERS EXONERATED IN COURT

Judge McDowell Instructs Not Guilty Verdict

Frank L. McKinney, attorney of South Boston, and W. S. Adkisson, also of the Halifax bar, were exonorated by a federal court jury yesterday of indictments under the War Risk Insurance Act. After the evidence had been heard in the McKinney case, Judge H. C. McDowell directed that the jury bring in a verdict of "not guilty" on the ground that the government had not sustained the indictment. The jury was given the option of returning such a verdict or retiring and reaching a decision. The inference was that if the jury had returned a verdict of guilty the court would have immediately set it aside. The jury, however, chose the former course and gave the Halifax man a clean bill of health.

The case against Adkisson was then gone into and the same procedure was observed, the court instructing a "not guilty" verdict which was promptly returned. The government failed to show as predicted in the opening statement of Assistant District Attorney Clarence Gentry that the two men had preyed on the susceptibilities of ignorant people in making a claim for war insurance in the case of Abner Lee Lacks.

The defense was, however, able to show that the three-dollar fee set by law as the cost limit by attorneys in preparing claim papers had not been overstepped, but that the $700 fee for professional services was earned in conducting a will contest suit, which arose in the State court over the $10,000 war insurance policy.

All three indictments heard at the present term of court under the War Risk Insurance Act resulted in the defeat of the government.

The indictment against Davis S. Bill, former postmaster of Spencer, in Henry county, was continued yesterday by the government. It is understood that one of the principal witnesses for the government was not present and that th case could ot be gone into in his absence. The indictment alleges a shortage of funds in the Spencer postoffice. Mr. Bill appeared and gave bond, of $2,500, for appearance in the March term of court, Mrs. Catherine B. W. Bill going security.

Wild Rampage Cost Him $46.25

Herbert Spencer's wild rampage several days ago in which he is alleged to have beat up two negresses, cost him exactly $46.25 in the police court this morning. Ana Foy, wife of the negro appeared in court with her face covered with bruises, alleging that her husband beat her and Julia Averett was also there charging that she was assaulted. Julia also claimed that Spencer trespassed on her property by breaking down the door to her house and after gaining entrance creating a disturbance. For assaulting Anna, the negro was assessed $25 and costs and on the trespass and disturbance charge was fined $10 and costs. The warrant charging assault on Julia was dismissed.

Julia, who seemed to be more angry than hurt, first testified that Anna came running to her house for protection earl[illegible] one morning. She said Herbert w[illegible]oon there also knocking on the door and acting in a boisterous manner. He soon had broken the door down and was attacking Anna, she claims, She then told of the attack on her. Anna testified that her husband did not strike her in Julia's house as the latter had stated. "She don't know, she was unconscious," responded Julia hastily. She added "It was outrageous the way Herbert beat the woman." Anna did not seem to agree with her although her face was covered with bruises. She did admit that Herbert did not treat her right and knocked her down a flight of steps but said he did not beat the Averett woman.

Fanie Cunningham, colored, was put under a recognized bond of $25 for her good behavior for 90 days as result of charges brought by Martha Howard, who claimed that the negress was continually abusing her.

Will Wright, colored, was fined $2.50 and costs for trespassing on property of the Southern railroad.

Tariff Ready For Harding

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—The administration tariff bill was made ready today for Harding, who expected to complete its enactment within a few days. Immediately after adoption of the conference report yesterday the bill was sent on its way to be engrossed.

—Rev. C. A. Curtis and family, the guests of Mrs. M. D Turner and other relatives for the past week, returned to their home, Knoxville, Tenn., yesterday. Mrs. Curtis will be remembered by friends, as Miss Mary Phillips. They motored through, coming via the "Land of the Sky."

OFFICERS INDICTED FOR SHOOTING WOMAN

SHELBY, N. C., Sept. 19.—Upon the motion of Solicitor Hoffman, Judge Ray today issued bench warrants for Federal Prohibition Officer House and State Prohibition Officers Royle, Wesson and Short, charging them with attempted murder of Mrs. H. I. Miller who was shot two weeks ago when the officers attempted to search the car in which she was riding with her husband. Bonds were fixed at $5,000 each. Arrests were expected tomorrow.

Mrs. Miller's condition still is grave.

Gretna Matter Probed Today

Detectives Will Not Appear —Prospect of Being Arrested on 12 Warrants Causes Change in Plans.

Advices received from at 1 o'clock this afternoon were that the county grand jury had not yet taken up the Gretna investigation. Officers of the court said that the only witness sent in to the grand jury room were those connected with liquor cases.

It was indicated that the enquiry would open up this afternoon. About fifteen or twenty people from Gretna are there prepared to testify but the detectives have not been seen.

The grand jury at Chatham today began its investigation into the recent episode at Gretna where accounts have conflicted widely over what took place in a magistrate's court where charges of violating the liquor law were pressed by state prohibition officials and private detectives imported from North Carolina.

The grand jury was not in session yesterday and had set this morning for the beginning of the 'painstaking investigation' which Judge J. Turner Clement asked them to make of the affair. The court in charging the grand jury asked that if evidence of a disturbance was revealed that indictments be returned and that if not then the good name of Gretna should be vindicated.

It was learned here on reliable authority today that R. G. Thompson and J. H Dunn, the twodetectives from Winston-Salem, N. C., and the storm centre of the alleged demonstration will not be at Chatham to go before the grand jury. The two men came through Danville on Monday and said that they were on their way to the county seat for the purpose of laying their side of the Gretna incident before the grand jury. They apepar to have changed their plans rather suddenly.

Arriving at Chatham, it is reliably reported, a friend met them at the train and told them thta there were six state warrants against them waiting to be served, these alleging various violations of the omni-present Mapp act. The effect of this information was that the detectives stayed on the train and got off at Alta Vista, where they bought a ticket back to Greensboro, N. C., and caught the first train going that way.

Failure of the officers to appear was expected to weaken the strength of the evidence of those men who insist that a near lynching took place at Gretna when the cases 'worked up' by the detectives were brought to trial.

As the matter stood today it seemed that there would be Prohibition Inspector W. T. Shelton present to testify that the situation in the courtroom was the worst he had ever witnessed and who, after the affair was over stated that he was fearful for the lives of the detectives. Mr. Shelton, it is understood, clings to his version tenaciously and is supported by three of four other state officers, including Magistrate R. C. Collie of Chatham, one of the presiding officers who will doubtless be called as a witness.

Against them will be the negative side presented by a strong and influential delegation from Gretna headed by Mayor H. E. Webb. Their contention will be that the portrayal of events as given by the officers was greatly exaggerated and that nothing like a dangerous situation took place. The grand jury it is expected, will eliminate all but actual eyewitnesses in the courtroom at the time.

Getting Ready For the Season

Local warehousemen are already preparing for unusually heavy receipts of tobacco when the Danville auction season opens on October 2nd. While nearly two weeks will elapse before the opening takes place the situation seen yesterday at such places as Winston-Salem and South Hill where the markets were literally swamped leads local warehousemen to believe that a similar condition will be here. M. O. Nelson who returned today from Winston said that he never saw so much tobacco in any market as he did yesterday at Winston, the quantity being sufficient to keep the warehouses busy for three days. The glut far exceeded the unusual situation in Danville in the fall of 1919.

Owing to the fact that the farmers have cut and cured most of their tobacco it is believed that when the market opens here on October 2nd there will be a large influx of tobacco wagons instead of a few piles which usually mark the opening of sales.

When the co-operative marketing association begins the acceptance of deliveries here it is also predicted that farmers will be prompt to avail themselves of the first opportunity to convert their crop into money, and will be on hand in force.

One of the warehousemen today gave orders to have every hogshead removed from the salesfloor so as to leave as much space as possible. He said that he looked for unusually large receipts on that day. As there will be quadruple sales, however, a block is not anticipated.

Murder Of Wells Carefully Planned

The county officers have been unable to locate Samuel Stone, a negro who is wanted for the murder of William Ed Wells, also colored, at Pumpkin creek on Monday afternoon. The best information the Schoolfield officers who have been working on the case are able to get is that the man caught a train and went to New York.

The evidence adduced at the coroner's inquest which held Stone responsible for the murder revealed a well laid plan of assassination. Stone who worked at Fulton's dairy is said to have had a quarrel with Wells several days ago, the two parting on bad terms. A few days later, witnesses asserted, Stone was going around the neighborhood trying to borrow shotgun shells and forthwith went to Pumpkin creek where he is said to have known that Wells was in the habit of watering his horse in the evening. Wells arrived astride his horse which was drinking when Stone carried out his threat by shooting the man from ambush. The shot instantly killed Wells.

Open Petersburg Tobacco Market

PETERSBURG, Va., Sept. 19.—The Petersburg tobacco market opened this morning with sales in two warehouses of the weed being on the floors when the bidding began.

So many farmers crowded the streets in the vicinity of the warehouses that the police department was asked to straighten out the situation. Prices so far are remarkably good, much better than last year's, especially for the poorer grades of tobacco, which tend to make the average higher. The highest price paid for a lot of tobacco this morning was $46. Practically all of the tobacco sold today was first primings, and, thereore, very high prices were not expected.

The Watson warehouse, operated by the Tobacco Growers' Co-Operative association, did not open this morning, but will probably do so about October 3.

Fourteen Killed In Train Wreck

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 20.—Fourteen persons were killed and seventeen injured in a wreck yesterday of a northbound passenger train at Empalma Gonzalez. The wreck was caused by a washout. Two Americans were victims. It s possible that other victims will be discovered when the debris is cleared away.

Preacher Breaks Jail.

McALESTER, Okla., Sept. 19.—Rev J. C. Trotter, who was arrested on charges of embezzling funds from the Brooks Institute, at Hartshorne, Okla., and of wife desertion, escaped from the Pittsburgh county jail here early today. The bars of his cell were found sawed in two by the jailer when he made an inspection this morning. The minister was in his cell at midnight.

Trotter is wanted by Kentucky authorities on a fugitive warrant, according to advices received by officials here.

He was arrested a month ago at Eufaula, Okla., in company with Miss Audry Campbell, a nurse at the hospital at Brooks Institute. She was not held.

Since he has been in jail he has been cooking the meals for the other prisoners.

Man Shot By U. S. Officers On Trial

O. F. Barbour, of Pittsylvania county who was indicted by the federal grand jury yesterday for drawing a revolver on a federal raiding posse which closed in on a still in the Pigg river district, is on trial before a jury in the United States court today.

Barbour was sho tand wounded by J. N. Wood, one of the raiding officers, his injury however being slight.

The officers put the case before the grand jury yesterday, the government's contention being that last March when Barbour and another man ran from a still, Barbour was seen to put his hand on his revolver whereon Wood shot him. The shot entered the rear of the man's arm and emerged the other side. His defense is that if he touched his revolver it was done so accidentally in the course of flight.

He is charged with resisting arrest and attempt to shoot at officers as well as for violation of the national prohibition act.

Ten-Year-Old Boy Threw Bottle Which Injured Witt

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 19.—A ten-year-old boy threw the pop bottle which struck "Whitey" Witt of the New York Americans in the forehead in last Saturday's baseball game with St. Louis, according to Joseph Walsh, Deputy United States District Court clerk. Mr. Walsh was in the right field crowd and said he saw a boy hurl the bottle and disappear in the crowd.

Governor to Hear Plea For Allens Next Saturday

Strong Committee Will Argue for Their Pardon Supported by Petitions Bearing 40,000 Names.

W. L. Joyce of Stuart an attorney and one of the committee which is to appear before Governor Trinkle on Saturday to plead the cause of the Allen and Edwards convicts serving long terms for their part in the Hillsville case said today that those interested in the men's welfare are sanguine over their success.

Mr. Joyce who is attending the United States court here said today that it might be impossible for him to be ni Richmond on Saturday as he is counsel in a case set for preliminary hearing in Stuart next Saturday. He hopes, however, to have his case continued in order that he may be present. Edgar B. English and Thomas O. Moss, attorneys for the men and Mr. Joyce are to make addresses in the interest of the convicted men. If Mr. Joyce finds it impossible to go Rev Dr. McDaniel of Richmond who has been deeply interested in the welfare of the four men will apepar and speak before the governor.

Mr. Joyce stated today that the committee does not expect the governor to make any decision on Saturday. He will probably view the petitions, listen to the representations for the men and then take the matter under advisement returning his decision at some future date. Nobody knows just how the governor feis on the question but the committee is hoping for favorable action.

The attorney stated that the petitions ready for presentation carry the names of between 45,000 and 50,000 citizens of Virginia, some of these prominent people. Mr. Joyce has been through Carroll county and reports a predominant sentiment in favor of outright pardon or a parole which would be based upon the future godo behavior of the men. The sentiment of the Democrats is avowedly in favor of the men while among the Republicans it is not so strong. Political lines were sharply drawn at the time of the affair and it has been said that political feud was what really caused the courtroom outbreak. The basic differences between the two factions are now rarely discussed but they are considered only dormant. It is now ten years since the affair took place and there are many homes in Carroll and Patrick where a feeling of expectancy is growing more and more tense as the day for the appeal to the governor approaches. It is understood that none of the relatives of the men will be present at the hearing but that the interest of the four men will be reposed in the attorneys.

Mr. Joyce states that in Patrick county ninety per cent. of the sentiment is favorable to the Allens and that the belief there is that the governor will take favorable action when he sees the petitions. The attitude of the people favorable to the pardon is that the punishment of confinement for the past ten years has meant far more to the men reared in wild and rugged country and who have lived their life close to nature than it would be to others.

A representative of the state welfare department who was here some months ago said that all of the men ha dsplendid records in the penitentiary and that there was not a bad mark against any of them. All of them, by their behavior have been made trusties, one of them being allowed outside the penitentiary ground. This man was Wesley Edwards who was private chauffeur for Major Wood recently retired as superintendent of the penitentiary. The pardon board is understood to have never made any recommendation as to the pardon of the men but it has been learned from authentic sources that a majority of the board is in favor of the Allens and Edwards.

Restore Order In Smyrna

(By The Associated Press.)

SMYRNA, Sept. 20.—Order has been restored here after the horrors of conflagration and calm now prevails. The Turks have begun clearing bodies from the ruins left by the fire and are gathering up those lying in the streets. Enver Pasha has declined the request of the allies to permit Greek ships to remove refugees until he can confer with the authorities at Angora.

New Theories In Sensational Killing

(By the Associated Press.)

NEW BRUNSWICK, Sept. 20.—Inquiry into the killing of Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall, Mrs. Eleanor Rinehardt Mills, was centered today on the investigation of the theory that an abandoned farm house near the spot where the bodies were found Saturday have been used by the slain couple as a trysting place.

OFFICERS ARE NAMED BY ROYAL ARCH MASONS

At the annual meeting of Euclid chapter, No. 15, Royal Arch Masons in the Elks' lodge-room last night and with a good attendance of members officers were elected for the ensuing year as follows:

High Priest, M. R. D. Brown; King, H. A. Conner; Scribe, L. W. Cole; Treasurer, Thomas I. Cobb; Secretary, E. G. Anderson; Captain of the Host, J. H. Gammon; Principal Sojourner, R. B. Dals; Royal Arch Captain, Eugene Rice; Master of the Third Veil, W. E. Link; Second Veil, David P. Garvin; First Veil, N. J. Waugh; Tiler, J. T. Posey.

A pleasing feature of the occasion was the presentation to the retiring high priest, James M. King, of a handsome silver tea service by his appreciative associates in the chapter. Mr. King is an accomplished Mason and a gentleman who is universally esteemed in his business and personal associations and his Masonic relations. The presentation which came as a complete surprice to him, was happily made, but the recipient was so nonplussed by the unexpected expression and its beautiful character that he could hardly find words to express himself in acknowledgment, although his gratitude and appreciation were evidenced in more impressive ways than words.

The occasion was further signalized by an official visit by District Deputy High Priest W. L. Davis, of Chatham, who was accorded a Royal Arch welcome.

DR. ANDREW SLEDD TO SPEAK HERE

Dr. Andrew Sledd, professor of New Testament theology, Emory University, has written to the Rev. J. Callaway Robertson, pastor of Mt. Vernon Methodist church, confirming an engagement made several months ago to come to Danville and deliver a series of addresses at Mount Vernon church October 1 to October 8, inclusive.

Dr. Sledd is a son of the late Dr. R. N. Sledd, of the Virginia Conference, former pastor of Main Street Methodist church, for whom Sledd Memorial Methidost church of this city is named.

Dr. Sledd is a biblical scholar of international reputation and the fact that he is coming to Danville in the near future to deliver lectures on the Bible will, no doubt, arouse much interest.

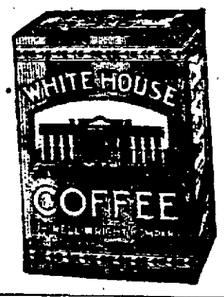

He will speak at Mt. Vernon twice on Sunday, October 1, and once each in afternoons and evenings from Monday to Friday, inclusive, of the week following. In the afternoons his subject will be, "How We Got Our Bible." In the evenings his topic will be "High Points in the Gospels of John."

BREAKS HIS FOREARM IN FALL FROM FENCE

Jack Martin, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Martin, residing on West Virginia Avenue, suffered a fracture of one forearm yesterday when he fell from a fence at his home as he was attempting to scale the fence. The lad and his brother a few years older were at home at the time and playing about the lawn when the accident occurred. A physician was called and after some difficulty two responded and reduced the fracture. It was thought that only one of the two bones of the forearm was fractured, but the other was severely wrenched, and the lad suffered considerable pain.

RHINESTONES

Rhinestone buckles and straps are seen on many of the gowns of gold and silver tissue. Frequently small stones outline patterns on the fabric.

LIVE STOCK SHOW WILL BE SUCCESS

Lovers of Live Stock will enjoy themselves to the limit when they attend the great Danville Fair, October 10th to 13th. According to Fair Officials who have been working all the year to make the live stock show an unusual success there will be the greatest number of fine herds of pure bred cattle ever seen on the Fair Grounds. Practically every breed of breef and dairy cattle will be represented. Almost every stall has been reserved by exhibitors for the big cattle show.

The Danville Fair Association pays much attention to its live stocks show. The Live Stock Exhibits will be one of—if not—the leading feature of the coming Fair. Visitors to the Fair will be surprised when they find out how much good stock we have at home. There will be found among the Dairy Herd Exhibitors some of the very finest stock in the country. Interesting features include music, fireworks, splendid free acts and the greatest carnival obtainable. Sixteen big shows, five rides with some 50 concessions belonging to the Carnival outfit.

No efforts or money have been spared in making the amusement features the best of the kind ever shown to the Danville public. All the educational exhibits will be large. Boys' and Girls' Poultry, Corn and Canning Clubs will complete for the ribbons and money prizes. Farm products of all kinds and of the very highest quality will be shown.

Grounds and buildings are being put in first class condition. New band stand has been built and everything will be ready for the big opening on the morning of October 10th. Exhibitors are requested to make their entries early to avoid the rush attendant upon the last few days.

DANVILLE MEN ATTEND WINSTON TOBACCO MART

About a score of Danville's tobacco merchants attended the opening of the tobacco market in Winston-Salem yesterday, which was described as the most auspicious opening ever held in the North Carolina town.

Enough tobacco was brought upon the auction floors by tobacco farmers to keep the warehouses busy for three days and many farmers who were unable to be accomodated, took their tobacco back home.

Record sales for the initial day were recorded—and this, despite the fact that most of the tobacco offered was first primings. The average price was about 21 cents, which was considered good, considering the quality of the weed.

Among the Danville men who attended the sale were:

Col. O. W. Dudley, Col. D. J. Holcomb, Harry Lea, Gordon Tuggle, J. H. Wilson, Sam P. Robertson, M. O. Nelson and C. B. Davis.

DR. B. B. JONES WEDS CAL. GIRL

The many Danville friends of Dr. Basil Bradbury Jones, an esteemed and widely known Danville gentleman now residing and practising his profession in Los Angles, the Wonder City of southern California, will be pleased to learn of his wedding to Miss Ruth Seybolt, of Portsmouth, N. H., which occurred in Los Angeles on September 12th, the Rev. Dr. Smith, of the Presbyterian church, being the celebrant. The bride is a cultured and much admired young lady.

Dr. Jones is a son of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Jones, of Danville, Va., and spent his childhood, youth and young manhood here. After completing his preliminary eduction he took a medical course in one of the leading universities and since his graduation therefrom, he has especially equipped himself or his specialty, the diseases of children, which he is successfully practising in the California city. His parents in this city were aware of his wedding plans, but did not attend the wedding.

Dr. and Mrs. Jones immediately after the ceremony began an automobile tour of the California coast resorts during which they will visit many of the most beautiful scenic points in that section so rich in natural beauty.

Mustapha Kemal Pasha's infantry, firmly entrenched at Ismid and Brusa opposite Constantinople, awaits only the orders of its chief to advance on the ancient capital of the Ottoman Empire.

ROCKY MOUNT NEWS

ROCKY MOUNT, Va., Sept. 18.—The County School Board has issued posters calling attention that every parent, or guardian, or any other person having control or charge of any child or children who has reached the eighth birthday, and has not passed their fourteenth must send such child or children to school. The period of compulsory attendance shall commence at the beginning of the school which the pupil attends. Any child who is physically or mentally incapacitated for the work of the school is exempt, but the Supt. of the schools, R. A. Prillaman, requires a certified statement sent him, from a practicing physician stating how the child is incapacitated. The penalty for false statements, or induces, or attempts to induce any child to be absent unlawfully from school, or employed or harbors while school is in session shall be fined $25.00.

An attendance officer will be appointed at next County School Board meeting, Saturday, Sept. 23.

The paved streets of Rocky Mount are be giving a fresh coating of tar, crushed stones and sand, which is badly needed at several points on the main throughfares of the town.

The regular monthly meeting of the county supervisors is in session here today. No other business was transacted other than the regular routine of a business meeting.

Mrs. H. Elridge Menefee and family, of Feuum, wish to thank their relatives and friends for their kindness shown them during the illness and death of her husband, and their father, Mr. H. Elridge Menefee.

The dance Friday night at Hotel Rocky Mount, was a social success, and attend by a large crowd. The music was rendered by the Rocky Mount saxaphone orchestra.

Miss Betty Hix, the house guest of Miss Mary Claiborne Willis, was the honoree at a most enjoyable informal dance, Saturday, given her by Miss Claiborne, in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Willis, on South Main street. The Rocky Mount saxtette saxaphone orchestra furnished the music.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Raymond Davis entertained at a delectable six o'clock dinner, Thursday. Covers were laid for ten. The guests were, Miss Annie Via, Miss Martha Williams, Miss Vert Simpson, little Henrietta Davis, Mr. Walter Brown, Master Robert Bolling McNeil, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. McNeil and Mr. and Mrs. W. Raymond Davis.

Mrs. A. B. Garrett with sons, Randolph, and A. B. Garrett, Jr., are in Lynchburg, visiting relatives, and from there will go to Lexington, to visit her son, B. Greenwood Garrett, who is a student, at Washington and Lee University, studing law.

Mrs. H. W. Peak accompanied her daughter, Mrs. Word Day Peak, to Chatham, Saturday, who has been her guest for the past two weeks. Mr. Word D. Peak is principal of Chatham public schools.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy H. Beheler and family were the week-end house guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. Dalton Dillard, on South Main street.

Miss Flora Greer returned Saturday from Galax, where she has been visiting for the past ten days.

Mrs. J. M. Williams had her sister, Mrs. D. S. Simpson, of New York City, for her house guest, the latter part of the week.

Mr. H. D. Menefee will leave Wednesday for Richmond, on a business trip.

William Sharp, of Madison, N. C., visited his friend, Randolph Perdue, Jr., for the week-end.

Miss Betty Hix, of Roanoke, spent Friday, Saturday and Sunday in Rocky Mount, the guest of Miss Mary Claiborne Willis.

SOUTHERN MEN GOING BACK

"Shop craft employees of the Southern Railway System who have been on strike will be restored to work as rapidly as this can be done without disturbing the orderly working of our shop," Vice President H. W. Miller said yesterday with reference to the agreement terminating the strike on the Southern, which he signed with the shop craft heads yesterday afternoon. Under the terms of the agreement, Mr. Miller added all old men, with the exception of those who have been guilty of violence, are to be put back within thirty days. "We shall probably be able to place practically all our old men at the reduced wages set by the order of the United States Railway Labor Board against which the strike of July 1st, was directed."

"Men employed since August 15th, when the Southern began recruiting to fill vacancies in its shops forces who wish to leave our service will be returned to the places at which they were recruited. In reaching a settlement with our men the text of the Chicago agreement was followed absolutely, not a word being added or subtracted, nor was there any side agreement."

AL G. FIELD MINSTRELS

At the Majestic, Friday, Sept. 22, Matinee and Night

They call themselves the Saxoland Five, the quintet being composed of Cary Cameron, Rody Jordan, Harry Corley, John Bourke and Garner Newton, and of all the musical acts on the stage today perhaps none succeed in arousing the enthusiasm these saxophone "specialists" enjoy when they appear in the course of the Al G. Field Minstrels.

Not only do these musicians dispense mighty fine harmony during their act, but they afford Al G. Field audiences a brand of comedy distinct and unusual in its character. Four of the five work in white-face, while Rody Jordan, in blackface, "shakes" a "wicked" basso saxophone and provides more laughs to the breath than any other comedian of his kind on the stage today.

The Al G. Field Minstrels are booked to appear at the Majestic, Friday, Sept. 22, matinee and night. Seats now at box office.

D. M. I. Opening Ceremony Today

Th 1922-2 session of Danville Military Institute was opened yesterday morning, the exercises beginning at [illegible] o'clock. A large crowd of Danville people attended the opening which was held in the assembly hall of the school.

The principal address was made by Dr. J. N. Latham, pastor of Main Street Methodist Church. Dr. Latham talked in his usually interesting and delightful manner about the important things of life, the chief of which he termed service. He spoke of the various ideals that activated men—strength, wealth, knowledge, pleasure—all of which were given their position of relative importance by the speaker. But service, he dominatd, as the highest ideal.

Dr. Henry Wade DuBose, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, was called upon by Col. Kemper to talk, and he responded in a reminiscent mood of his own early school days in Tennessee. He wove into his talk those principles of truths which underly the success of schools with boys and boys in school.

The meeting was opened with prayer by the Rev. L. P. McCulloch, pastor of the Schoolfield Presbyterian church. This was followed by the singing of America by the audience.

One of the most interesting features of the program was a dialect story of the mountains of Kentucky by Miss Adams, elocution teacher of Averett College. She told most delightfully of little boys in mountain mission schools and what caused them to wash their ears.

R. M. I. was represented at the opening exercises by Miss Moore, music teacher, who sang.

At the close of the exercises, Col. Kemper, superintendent, made a brief talk in which he outlined the hopes and aspirations, the plans and policies of the school.

Classification and registration of new students began this morning. Many of the out-of-town as well as boarding students were on hand to take the initial steps at getting ready for the school year.

The many improvements which have been made at D. M. I. were noted by the visitors yesterday. The school appears to have surrounded itself with a new atmosphere and certainly the buildings and grounds have taken on a rejuvenated aspect. The building has been put in splendid repair, while the grounds have been beautified.

Player's Nose Broken By a Strong Golf Ball

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—While playing golf at Westchester Hills golf course in Westchester county yesterday morning Samuel K. Fields, of 34 Ridgeview avenue, White Plaines, was struck with a golf ball. His nose was broken and his right eye injured. He was treated at the clubhouse by Dr. Moriarity and is reported to be doing well.

The accident is an odd one. Mr Fields, with others, was playing when a ball driven with great force from another point on the course struck him in the face. He fell to the ground and his companions carried him to the clubhouse.

Five Go to Jail as Result of "Party" At Benedict

BENEDICT, Md., Sept. 19.—Seven Washingtonians "woke up" this quiet little town with the "party" they staged here yesterday afternoon.

Alleged to have been intoxicated, they arrivd here in a taxicab from Washington. Two are alleged to have removed all their clothes in front of a large number of people and to have about in this condition.

As an "extra added" feature the men are said to have staged a fight with Paul T. Robey, driver of the taxicab, in which they came together.

The men gave their names as Robt. McGraff, James M. Graff, Clifford Kenshaw, William J. Fallon, H. P. Stansbury, J. Shanahan and James Jones.

Bystanders notified State Policeman William C. Lothner, who is stationed at Waldorf, Md., and he in turn notified Sheriff J. M. Simms. Today each of the men was fined $20 and costs. Both Robert and James M. McGraff paid. The other men, however, were unable to pay and were removed to the county jail.

Y. W. C. A. NEWS ITEMS.

The Board of Directors of the Young Women's Christian Association held their first regular meeting since last June on Saturday afternoon, Mrs. Archibald D. Keen, president of the Association, presiding.

At the close of the business meeting, Miss Margaret P. Brydon, chairman of the Finance Committee, gave an interesting and comprehensive report of the Y. W. C. A. city conference held at Blue Ridge, N. C., last July. Miss Erna Anderson's report of the high school girls' conference at Sweetbriar was equally illuminating.

The two new secretaries, Mrs. Estelle J. Hinchliffe, and Miss Mary Bullington were introduced to the Board.

An attractive supper party was given at the Y. W. C. A. a few evenings ago in honor of Miss Utha Gray Smith, Miss Janie Moore and Miss Frances Clark; all of whom have left Danville for the school term. The other guests at the supper were Misses Mary Bullington, Margaret Proctor, Virginia Musselman, Gertie Adams Walker Snead, Evelyn and Rosa Baroody.

A folder, telling of the Fall activities at the Y. W. C. A., is being prepared and will soon be ready for distribution. Classes n dressmaking, millinery, personal efficiency, Bible study, current events and home nursing will be formed. A class will be formed in any branch provided a sufficient number will apply.

The Fall activities at the Y. W. C. A. will open on October 6th with a get-together supper for girls, not only Y. W. C. A. girls but any girl in Danville will be cordially welcomed. Details of the supper will be given later.

Mrs. Archibald D. Keen entertained the staff at breakfast at the Country Club on Tuesday morning. Not only was the appetizing breakfast enjoyed on the club porch, amid the charming outlook of hills and river, but policies and plans for the Association program were outlined and discussed.

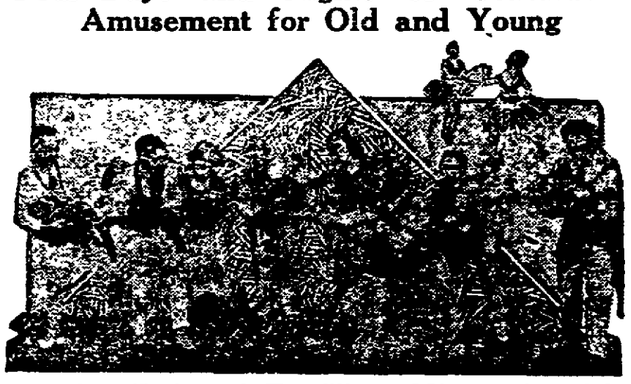

—Kerr Mitchell, who has been in the General Hospital for two weeks with influenza, is reported to be improving. Mrs. Mitchell, ill of the same complaint at her home, is also improving.

Murder a Big Joke To Boy Patricide

PETERSBURG, Ind., Sept. 19.—Alternately taking huge "chaws" from a plug of tobacco, and smoking a cigarette, Asa Miller, a youth not yet 20, sat in court here today, and told of killing his father.

The body of his father was found under a tree. He had been beaten to death with a fence rail.

"I knocked the stufflings out of the old man," Miller asserted. He said "the old man" had chased him about the house with a knife.

Miller laughed as witness told of finding the body of his father. He seemed to take the entire proceedings as a joke.

The court decided that he was insane and ordered him committed to an asylum.

Storm Moves Towards North

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—Storms over the South Atlantic coast were central today in latitude 32 and longitude 77 with an apparent motion to the north—northeast the weather bureau reported. Gales continue off the South Atlantic coast and storm warnings remained displayed from the Virginia capes to Jupiter, Fla.

Dr. Hughes' Statement.

Dr. S. R. Hughes today made a statement denying that a group of colored men had been caught in his office suite gambling a few nights ago. He said that the raid was made in the servants' quarters in the rear of his home.

The statement of the arresting officers was that they had peered through the "office part" of the building.

STATEMENT OF L. S. RORER

In conection with the forthcoming grand jury investigation at Chatham I wish to give to the public the text of a letter which B. R. Powell wrote to R. C. Tuck, which has some bearing on the efforts of certain people to convict citizens of Pittsylvania county. I am in a position to prove that Tuck, sentenced to serve thirty days in jail at the Lynchburg federal court was told by Powell that if he woud give him -150 he would get him off. Powell took Tuck's money but Tuck served his time. The following letter bears on this point:

L. S. RORER.

"Gretna, Va. March 3, 1921.
"Mr. R. C. Tuck,
Leesville, Va.
"Dear Tuck:

"You get all the good men that you can to sign this in your section around you and then go over to Ramsey and get him to certify they are good and reliable men. I am arranging to go to Washington about Friday night, the 15th, and am making dates to that effect.

"This will give you plenty of time to get things in shape and get the papers over here. I think we had better take $100 or $150 along when I go so as to be in shape to get things closed up. You can bring that along, and if you can get us two quarts of good whisky—one of brandy and one whisky—it will be worth the cost, as one of the fellows that I will have to help us is very fond of same.

"Try and get things in shape and oblige and bring the papers over with the money and I will go on the night of the 15th.

"Keep the paper clean as you can as we want it to look nice when I present same.

(Signed) "B. R. POWELL."

L. R. Fair Named To Take Place Of Clinedinst

Luther R. Fair has received a letter from John Hopkins Hall, Richmond, commissioner of labor, informing him that he had been appointed assistant commissioner of labor for the State of Virginia, effective immediately to succeed J. B. Clinedinst who has resigned, and who was given a temporary appointment as assistant commisioner. In the letter Mr. Fair is informed that the appointment is made for an indeterminate length of time.

The appointment will not greatly interfere with his present duties as chief inspector for the Labor Department of the State. He will be subject to call from the commissioner to go to any point in the State to conduct investigations which may be deemed needful of enquiry. He will be clothed with magisterial authoriyt, it is understood.

Mr. Fair was for many years in the Danville and Western railway shops, but entered the service of the State and after thirty days was promoted to the position of chief inspector.

During the rail strike he has been located in Danville to represent the interests of the State.

Must Elephant Die That Hurled Rail?

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Will Khartoum, giant elephant at the Bronx Zoo, join the death ranks of Gunda and Jumbo, the two elephants that had to be killed because of dangerous super-strength?

This has been puzzling the New York Zoological Society anew since Khartoum flew into a rage Sunday, tore to pieces his outside cage, made of regular track rail, and with his trunk hurled a two-ton rail over a 15-foot fence into a crowd of visitors, severely injuring Mrs. Josephine Giegerrich of No. 4010 Third Avenue.

Yesterday Khartoum was confined in the elephant house. John Toomey, the headkeeper, says this house will have to be made stronger because Khartoum is getting stronger every year. To-day he is 9 feet 8 inches in height, weighs four tons, is seventeen years old, and gains in all proportions every year.

Khartoum started his campaign of violence two years ago, when he almost tore his whole outside cage into bits. The cage was then made stronger. Still, this Hercules from Africa, when angry, tears them up as if they were straw.

His rage Sunday was attributed to various causes by the keepers. Some believed it was jealousy because the children fed and made a fuss over the other elephants. Others thought it was due to the fact that small boys had fed him pebbles which he mistook for candy and which lodged in his trunk. Toomey, however, blamed the airplanes flying over the pen all afternoon.

Mrs. J. H. Griggs Buried Today

The funeral of Mrs. J. H. Griggs was held at 11:'0 o'clock today from the residence on South Main street, by Rev. H. W. DuBose, D. D., and Rev. J. M. Shelburne, D. D. Interment was in Green Hill cemetery.

The pall bearers were Charles Wood Fosley Smith, James Shelburne, Wilson Reynolds, Julian Skinner, Julian Adams, Russell Martin, James Bruce and Paul Fearington.

The flower bearers were Judge E. J. Harvey, W. B. Pinnix, W. I. Booth, George Bruce, E. H. Marshall, A. C. Conway, Dr. Sydnor, J. L. Reynolds, J. B. Anderson, J. R. Tate, J. M. Deserts Bride-To-Be For His Brother's Wife

LANCASTER, Pa., Sept. 19.—Ezra M. Hubler was to have married Virginia Souders tomorrow, but he disappeared Saturday. It is charged he ran away with his brother's wife and $1,365. Now it is patrol bells rather than the wedding bells for young Hubler.

He is only 18 years old. He and the intended bride live in Mountville. They had sent out 200 invitations for the wedding, but the ambition to become a movie star caused him to change his mind. His father gave him $1,365 to make a payment on their home last Friday. Instead, he made an appointment with his brother's wife, bought two tickets for Los Angeles and started for the Pacific Coast, where they expected to enter the movies.

France and Italy Withdraws Troops

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Sept. 20.—Official confirmation was received today from Constantinople stating that the French had withdrawn troops from Chanak and the Italians apparently were doing the same. The British forces are remaining alone at that point.

SETTLEMENT NEAR ON THE C. AND O.

(Special to The Bee.)

RICHMOND, Sept. 20.—A conference of representatives of the striking shopmen and Chesapeake and Ohio railroad is being held here today. The purpose being to have a meeting to discuss the return of the men on the entire system. One idea that obtains is to have the old force return as largely as posible in order that the work may proceed systematically, where every man is familiar with his duties, indications are that a settlement is not ver yfar away.

STORM MOVES SLOWLY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19—The Storm off the South Atlantic Coast moved slowly today and tonight and remained central near Latitude 30 and longitude 78 according to a weather bureau announcement at ten o'clock tonight. The disturbance is moving slowly northward and gales continue off the coast from Hatteras Southward to Latitude 29. Storm warnings remain displayed between the Virginia Capes and Jupiter Florida.

—Edgar, William and Frank Pollock left this morning for Bedford City, where they will enter Randolph-Macon Academy.

New Plane Can Do 200 Miles an Hour

NEW YORK, Sept. 19—A new type of racing monoplane said to be the highest powered for its size ever built, has just been completed at the plant of Loening Aeronautical Engineering Corporation, for entry by the United States Army Air Service in the Pulitzer Trophy race at Detroit.

Designed by Grover Loening, inventor of the Loening air yacht, the machine weighs 2,700 pounds ready for fight. An outstanding feature is the heavy continuous spars of the main wing structure, which extends through the fuselage and serve a chassis members.

The engine, which is mounted a the nose, is a 600 horsepower, twelve cylinder Packard, capable of developing 630. It is the same type, with improvements, as that of the Verville plane in which Capt. C. C. Mosely, in 1920, won the Pulitzer Trophy race at Mitchell Field, Mineola, L. I. His average speed for the 132 miles was 178 an hour.

Mr. Leoning believes his monoplane is capable of 200 miles an hour on better.

Murphy Boss For 20 Years.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—Twenty years ago tomorrow night since Charles F. Murphy became leader of Tammany Hall. He was 43 years old. Today only five district leaders who participated in the selection of Murphy are active in Tammany.

Murphy's regime as boss is the longest in the 133 years of Tammany's history. During his dictatorship Murphy has won five Mayoralty elections, named three Governors and one United States Senator.

—John Stubbins, Monroe street, who was operated on yesterday at the General Hospital, is reported as doing well as can be expected.

Via On Trial In Louisa County

LOUIA, Va., Sept. 19.—The testimony of the Rev. J. R. Glenn, Disciples minister of C. E. Via, prominent Louisa county contractor who, with seven others, was indicted for shooting-up the home of Mr. Glenn, at Pendleton, Louisa county, last June. Mr. Glenn detailed the shooting and other matters leading up to it, along the same lines he followed in the trial last month of Herbert S. Buckley, who was convicted of taking part in the attack on the Glenn home.

The Via trial began yesterday, but there was considerable difficulty in securing a jury. In addition to the regular jury panel for the term, sixty-one men had to be summoned before a jury was secured. It will be increasingly difficult to get a jury to try Booker Parrish, lumberman; W. S. Goodwin, merchant; R. E. Dolan, mine owner, and Ivey and Jim Vest, laborers, who cases are next on the docket for trial in connection with the shooting. The defense may be weakened to some extent by not having the testimony of Herbert S. Buckley, the white-capping of whom led to the shooting-up of the minister's home. Buckley, who was recently turned over to the authorities by those who were on his bond to keep the peace, sawed his way out of the Louisa county jail soon after his incarceration and is believed to have left the county.

It is not known yet whether or not Mrs. Theresa Thomas, of Richmond, whose presence at the Buckley home is believed to have caused the white-capping, will be here to testify for the defense.

20 Shots Fired At Klan Meeting

FREDERICK, Md., Sept. 19.—About twenty shots were fired by members of the Ku Klux Klan during an initiation about a mile west of Frederick, several nights ago. It became known yesterday. One of the shots went through a windshield of a Klansman's automobile and buried itself in a rear seat. A member returned the fire and the fusillade was kept up until those firing first retreated. The initiation, temporarily suspended, then continued.

—Mrs. Clyde White left this morning for Richmond to visit her father, E. A. Rainey.

Millions Point Way To Abundant Health Joy And Prosperity

Bring Cheerful, Inspiring and Hopeful Messages To Those Who Are Sick In Body and Spirit.

TESTIMONIALS GIVEN WOULD FILL VOLUMES

Possible For Everyone To Enjoy The Good Things Of Life—To Eat, Sleep, Work and Play, To The Fullest Measure.

Every human being is entitled to health, happiness and success. It is positively wrong to be satisfied with less. Do not fold your hands and accept ill health as something you cannot avoid or overcome.

Tens of thousands of men and women from all parts of the world have testified that life has been made worth living to them after they had almost given up hope. These are the fortunate onès who have been restored to health and strength by the use of Tanlac, by far the world's most celebrated tonic medicine.

If human testimony can be believed at all, and who can be so skeptical as to doubt these solemn and grateful statements, Tanlac has a power, a virtue, a merit, such as no other medicine ever possessed before. If these signed and witnessed statements, voluntarily given from a motive of gratitude only, were bound into volumes they would fill a big library and all of them speak the same cheering, inspiring and hopeful message.

They all agree that Tanlac brings a feeling of new life and energy to every portion of the body and sends the blood tingling through the veins. The body becomes ruddy with the glow of health, the mind casts off its drowsiness and becomes once more alert and active; there comes new, new energy and a new feeling of ability to do things never thought of before.

There is absolutely no excuse in this day and time for anyone to be classed among the weak, anaemic, half-sick, miserable and worn-out specimens of humanity who are being left behind in the race of life. You owe it to yourself, your family and your future to keep fit, for health means happiness and success. Health brings the capacity to enjoy the good things of life, to eat, to sleep, to work and to play to the fullest measure.

Join, today, the vast army of those who have been made healthy and strong by Tanlac. Throw off the poisons that are ruining your digestion, weakening your stsength, woecking your nerves, making your liver torpid, causing headaches, backaches and crippling you with rheumatism and other destructive diseases.

Bring the color to your cheeks and the sparkle of health to your eyes. Be robut, strong and sturdy. You can do this and you owe it to yourself, your future, your family, to act now.

'Sea Monsters' Attack Newfoundland Boat

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Sept. 19.—"Sea monsters" which are reported to be from 40 to 60 feet long, have attacked boats engaged in fishing out of British Harbor, Trinity Bay, and fishermen are afraid to go on the grounds.

A large school of these "monsters," of which no detailed description has been received, appeared off the coast a few days ago and is still thought to be in the Bay. An organized expedition will be sent from the settlements off which the school lies in an effort to capture or disperse it. Several boats which went out recently narrowly escaped being swamped by the "monsters."

The appearance of the school was reported to the Department of Marine and Fisheries by the telegraph operator at British Harbor.

ONE AMERICAN DOLLAR WORTH 3,500,000,000 ENVER RUBLES

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 20.—Enver [illegible] in Turkestan, was without money and consequently issued large quantitis of paper currency. This was measured in value against the Russian ruble, with the result that it took 1,000 Enverist rubles to buy one Russian ruble. With the American dollar bringing 4,000,000 Russian rubles, Enver's money worked out at the ratio of 4,000,000,00 for a dollar.

S. S. S. Fills Out Hollow Cheeks, Thin Limbs!

Men and women,—whether you will ever build yourself up to your normal, just-right weight depends on the number of blood-cells in your blood. That's all there is to it. It's a scientific fact. If your blood-cell factory isn't working right, you will be run-down, thin, your blood will be in disorder, and perhaps your face will be broken out with pimples, blackheads and eruptions. S. S. S. keeps your blood-cell factory working full time. It helps build new blood-cells. That's why S. S. S. builds up thin, run-down people, it puts firm flesh on your bones, it rounds out your face, arms neck, limbs, the whole body. It puts the "pink" in your cheeks. It takes the hollowness from the eyes, and it fools Father Time by smoothing out wrinkles in men and women by "plumping" them up. S. S. S. is a remarkable blood-purifier. While you are getting plump, your skin eruptions, pimples, blackheads, acne, rheumatism, rash, tetter, blotches are being removed. The medicinal ingredients of S. S. S. are guaranteed purely vegetable. S. S. S. is sold at all drug stores, in two sizes. The larger size is the more economical.

ARE IMPULSES TO LOVE AND SLAY THE SAME? JURY TO DECIDE

(By ALEXANDER HERMAN.)

MINEOLA, N. Y., Sept. 20.—Is Oscar Wilde's famous 'Ballad of Reading Gaol' to find its counterpart in the tragic life story of young and good-looking William Creasy, now on trial for the slaying of his fiancee, Miss Edythe E. Lavoy, the pretty 22-year-old school teacher?

Here in the Nassau county courtroom which once echoed with the testimony of the famous Carmen and De Saulies trials sits the man around whom the district attorney is trying to weave a mesh of testimony, based on this psychology which Wilde observed during his prison days:

"Yet each man kills the thing he loves,
By each let this be heard.
Some do it with a bitter look,
Some with a flattering word;
The coward does it with a kiss,
The brave man with a sword."

"He killed because he loved," says the district attorney.

"He couldn't kill because he loved," says the counsel for the defense.

The jury will decide and on the decision hangs the life of the prisoner.

Creasey met Miss Lavoy while he was in the navy. She had just come down from Tupper Lake, N. Y., to teach school in Long Island.

"Friendship," says Henry A. Uterhart, Creasy's lawyer, "ripened into love. Their engagement was soon announced.

Difference Apepars

The young sailor went north to meet his bride's family.

On his discharge, he returned to his home at Covington, Ky., and went back to work as a mechanic in a car and foundry shop.

Miss Lavoy went on teaching in a Freeport school.

They wrote to each other regularly. Her letters were fervent, neatly written and choicely worded. His letters were just as warm, but the handwriting was poor and the grammar bad.

"Creasy began to realize," his lawyer goes on, "that Miss Lavoy was above him culturally. He was just a mechanic without much schooling, she was a highly educated woman.

"So he tried to catch up. He took courses in a business school. But he found that the going was too hard."

Engagement Broken

Slow thinking, but decided, Creasy finally made up his mind.

"I couldn't make Edythe happy," he told his lawyer. "It was all right while I was in the navy, but now that I was just a mechanic, I felt that I was out of her class. She liked things that I couldn't give her—living in New York and going to big affairs, Yale-Harvard football games and the like."

So last spring the engagement was broken.

But their letters continued. They still loved each other.

"When there were rumors of a railway workers' strike," Uterhart explained, "Creasey decided to give up his job and go to Canada. On the way he stopepd in to see Mis Lavoy. He wanted to return to her some presents that she had sent him."

They were alone in the girl's room in her boarding house when the tragedy occurred.

A shot from Creasey's 32-calibre pistol—and the school teacher was dead.

Creasey says it was suicide. While he was napping on a couch, he says, the girl went to his pocket, took his revolver and shot herself in the right temple.

Why?

"She was despondent over her broken affair with Creasy," says the lawyer. "She loved him too well."

But the district attorney says it was murder an Miss Eva Lavoy, the dead girls sister, agrees with him. She has come down from her home in Utica, N. Y., to be the star witness against him.

THE INDEPENDENT WOMAN

is one of the brightest jewels which adorns our modern, economic system. But too often this independence is gained at the cost of health, and the wage-earning woman struggles through her duties, a prey to nervousness, backache and despondency. Does not her independence then become more of a burden than a joy? Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped many such women to regain their zest in life, and will help many more.—adv.

"Dead" Man Was Only Dead Drunk

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—When George Brown 35, of 425 Durnell Avenue, New Haven, Conn., left his home a few days ago and came here he did not expect to die here. Instead of making plans for a monument to his memory he gave himself up to such random pleasures as he could find in the metropolis.

Evidently his cup of joy was filled to overflowing, for he pitched headlong into the street shortly before 11 o'clock Saturday night in front of 257 Hudson Street, near Dominic. Policeman McNamara of the Beach Street station strolled by a few minutes later, saw the fallen man and tried to rouse him. Failing, McNamara called an ambulance from St. Vincent's Hospital.

The brusque young surgeon who dropped off the ambulance looked Brown over, noting a wound on Brown's head. Brown didn't budge and to all appearance was not breathing.

"Oh, he's dead. Take the body to the station house," the young surgeon said as he leaped aboard the ambulance and left.

Some one in the crowd that had gathered went around the corner and got the Rev. Joseph Simonetti, Assistant Pastor of the Church of Our Lady of Vilna in Dominic Street. Some one else called Dr. George E. Hayunga of 504 Canal Street.

"Just a dead one," McNamara explained, as the priest and the physician came up.

"He doesn't appear to be dead." Dr. Hayunga replied.

"But the ambulance surgeon said he was dead." McNamara rejoined.

Dr. Hayunga applied his stethoscope to Brown's chest and reported the heart action strong. Just then Brown rolled over and, with eyes still closed, shouted raucously:

"Gimme my handkerchief."

Then he sighed and rolled over again.

McNamara telephoned for another ambulance, as Brown was bleeding from the head. When St. Vincent's learned where the ambulance was wanted, the police were told the man had been pronounced dead.

"He's only dead drunk," the police replied.

This time Dr. Washburn, chief surgeon of the hospital, accompanied his young interne, and found Brown sitting up, gulping down a glass of water. His wounds are only superficial. He will be discharged from St. Vincent's today.

Co-ops Open Tobacco Season Under Flattering Conditions

ROXBORO, Sept. 19.—The tobacco growers' association opened in Roxboro this morning under flattering conditions. There was offered about 80,000 pounds of the weed, and not a single complaint registered. Officials of the local association said that never was there more satisfactory opening than this one. The following head officials of the tobacco growers' association were present and participated in the opening: R. R. Patterson, A. F. Breedlove and T. C. Watkins. Prayer was offered by Rev. B. C. Thompson of the Methodist church and short talks were made by S. G. Winstead, T. C. Watkins, Shields Harvey and R. R. Patterson. H. W. Winstead and C. O. Dixon, prominent in warehouse business for sixteen years, expressed themselve as never witnessing a more satisfactory opening.

GAMBLING SANCTIONED

MACON, Ga., Sept. 19.—Testimony was presented to a military board today that gambling was officially sanctioned in hospital company, No. 114, National Guard, by its commanding officer, Major Marcus Clausman, now of Atlanta, to help defray the expenses of the organization. In addition honorary memberships were sold at $10, each it was shown.

Copyright Law Is Involved In Broadcasting

LONDON, Sept. 20.—Vigorous protest has been made in the House of Commons against the plan of Postmaster-General Kelaway against granting to a combine of instrument makers for two years the right of wireless broadcasting in England, and a monopoly of the sale of receiving instruments. The plan, if adopted, will exclude American and other foreign-made wireless apparatus.

Captain Wedgwood Benn member of parliament, said broadcasting should be considered as a supplement to newspapers. He declared it marked the biggest development in the dissemination of information since the invention of the printing press. It was not right, he urged, that the development of wireless broadcasting should be left in the hands of a combine.

The speaker asked the postmaster-general what arrangements had been made for the copyright of newspaper dispatches. He said when a newspaper had at great expense obtained an item of news, it ought to enjoy the monopoly of it for a period of at least 24 hours.

Mr. Kellaway said there would be no monopoly.

Every one of the manufacturers of apparatus could become a member of the broadcasting company. "We have to keep this new form of communication in the hands of our own people," he proceeded. "Whether in the matter of broadcasting or reception, our manufacturers have a technical skill and a capacity of production equal to any in the wrold. I am advised that in the two years $30,000,000 will be spent in the purchase of receiving apparatus and erection of broadcasting stations, and 80 per cent. of this will go in wages."

TENNIS STARS PLAN AN INVASION OF EUROPE

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 19.—William T. Tilden, 2nd, national tennis champion and William Johnston, San Francisco, runner-up in this year's national singles championship, plan to invade Europe in1924, according to the champion.

Burmese Monk Arouses People

MANDALAY, Burma, Sept. 20.—Manalay gave the greatest ovation in its history recently to U. Ottama, the Burmese monk and nationalist leader, who came to the city from the Maubin jail where he had been shut away for his political activities.

The city went wild, for Mondalay. At the railroad station U. Ottama was placed in a palanquin and carried through the streets. Eight thousand monks and 50,000 people lined the way to greet him. There were many flags, much bunting, and countless political mottoes hanging from trees. Women threw flowers and rice in front of U. Ottama, presented him with gifts, and distributed fans, betel nuts, cold drinks and tea among the marchers. There was singing all along the line of march, and music from Burmese bands.

U. Ottama was called upon to make an address. He dwelt upon the country's national aspirations.

"There has come a distinct change in the mentality of the Burmese people," he said. "The old cringing before a sunburnt autocrat has given place to a manlier outlook. We have begun to take active interest in everything that happens in Burma as well as India.

"We are born in an age of new world-awakening. We are nurtured in new ideals. Let us take courage in our hands, and with a will and determination spring into the fire of patriotism and our road is clear before us. It is a question of the relization of the true spirit of freedom.

"If we can induce our people to take up hand-made clothes and avoid many useless luxuries of foreign make, home rule will be secured to us at no distant date. Englishmen do not want your country if they cannot make money out of you."

AUSTRALIA'S IMPRESSION OF AMERICAN HOTEL CHARGES

SYDNEY, N. S. W., Sept. 20.—Senator Pearce attended the Washington Limitation of Armaments Conference as Australian representative. Upon his return he presented a bill of expenses amounting to approximately $42,000. Some senators thought this was high, but the commonwealth treasurer, Mr. Bruce, came forward as one with experience of hotel bills in the United States, and declared one could not live in a Washington hotel for $250 a week unless one had no meals.

—Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Brown have returned from a motor trip to Baltimore.

For Indigestion

Sour, Acid, Gassy Stomach, Bloating, Flatulence, Try Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

After eating or at any time chew one or two Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. They relieve the gassy, sour risings, flatulence, belching, bloating heartburn, pressure and such trouble, due to indigestion because they give the stomach the alkaline effect the same as when the stomach is working normally. Carry them loose in your pocket. Just chew them. Get a 60 cent box today, any druggist. They sure do the work. You know from experience that if the stomach works without gassiness, sour risings, belching and so on, you generally feel fine no headache, no constipation, none of that dead, tired feeling. Be sure to get a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, known to wise people all over the U. S. and Canada as the one reliable relief for indigestion.

Facial Blemishes

Sallow, muddy, roughened or blotched complexions are usually due to constipation.

When you are constipated, not enough of Nature's lubricating liquid is produced in the bowel to keep the food waste soft and moving. Doctors prescribe Nujol because it acts like this natural lubricant and thus replaces it.

Nujol is a lubricant — not a medicine or laxative — so cannot gripe. Try it today.

Figures In New Brunswick (N. J.) Murder Mystery

Shot through the backs, the dead bodies of the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall, pastor of the Church of St. John the Evangelist (Episcopal), New Brunswick, N. J., (left, above) and Mrs. James Mills, wife of the church gardner (right above), were found in a lonely orchard where they had lain 48 hours. Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall (left, below), wife of the slain rector, and James Mills (right, below), husband of the slain woman, could shed no light on the mystery when questioned by authorities.

MAY BE ENVOY TO THE TURKS

GEN. SIR CHARLES TOWNSHEND

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 20.—General Sir Charles Townshend who directed the British campaign against the Turks in Mesopotamia during the World War and became famous through his heroism at the batle of Kut-el-Amarna, may be chosen as an allied envoy to settle the present Turkish crisis.

Though Townshend has spent most of his career fighting against the Turks and other Moslems, he is admired and respected by them and his opinions would carry great weight with Mustapha Kemal by whom he is well known.

Shortly before the Turkish offensive Townshend visited Angora and held long unofficial conversations with Kemal and members of his cabinet.

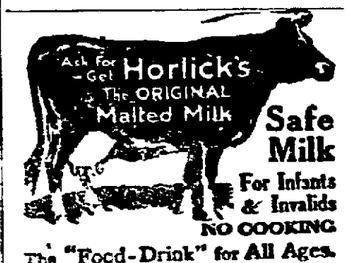

Townshend, it is believed, will advise the allies to give Turkey Constantinople, Adrianople and Thrace (he already has warned Great Britain that Turkish blood shed in keeping the Turks from Constantinople will mean a holy war with uprisings in all of Britain's Mohammedan possessions.

FORT WORTH WINS AGAIN

FORT WORTH, Texas, Sept. 19—(By The Associated Press)—Fort Worth defeated Mobile today 3—1, making it tow straights in the series for the Southern Championship. Waachtel's masterly pitching and hard hitting by Moore, Combs and Kraft were outstanding features in the Panther's victory. Score:

Builder of Glider Forecasts Strides In Sail Planes

CLEVELAND, Sept. 20.—A motorless airplane, capable of climbing to an altitude of 20,000 feet, is forecast by Dr. George H. Madelung, designer of the successful Hanover glider, which, in a recent glider competition in the Rhone valley, broke all records by staying in the air for more than three hours.

Dr. Madelung now is a member of the designing staff of local airplane company. Describing the phenomenal development of the machine in Germany, he explained its operation.

The machine has a gliding angle of sixteen to one, that is, in still air it glides sixteen feet to every foot it descends. It has a still air speed of 20 miles an hour. If the wind is twenty miles an hour, the glider remains stationary, and if more than that, it goes backwards, but if the air current is upward the glider ascends. It is upon upward currents of air that the glider places main dependence for keeping aloft for more than brief periods.

In sailing for a considerable distance the glider pilot must know approximately where he will encounter upward currents. Plowed fields and other open spaces where the heat of the sun creates a considerable up current, are favorable places. It is for this reason that the charting of the air currents has become necessary for the commercial developments of the glider.

When the places along a certain route where air currents may be encountered become known, flights of hundreds of miles and ascents of more than four miles may be accomplished, Dr. Madelung said.

He pointed to the hawk and other soaring birds as an illustration. The hawk will sail down to a field when it will cycle in ascent forced upward by the rising air caused by the reflected heat of the field. When it has reached a sufficient altitude it soars away, to repeat the process miles away.

In this connection, Dr. Madelung commented, that the hawks and other soaring birds do not fly at night, stating that the reason is because all air currents are downward at night. Night flying is impossible with gliders for the same reason, Dr. Madelung said.

With the application of the principles discovered in gliding a new type of airplane, far more efficient and safe than the present types will result. Dr. Madelung believes. Dr. Madelung's designs are being used extensively in the construction here of a new type of seaplane. It will have a wing design similar to that of the Hanover glider to be used by the U. S. Navy.

Dr. Madelung was assistant engineer before the war, in the German Institute of Aeronautical Research at Aldershoff. He was called to the front as a pilot but was later recalled to Aldershoff.

Drug Smuggling Becomes An Art

RANGOON, Burma, Sept. 20.—The drug smugglers of India and Burma, through long years of experience, have developed a finished system of operations which has little resemblance to the more or less crude and hit or miss methods of rum runners in the United States.

The men who finance the smuggling of drugs says, R. K. Anderson, superintendent of the Burmese Excise Department, are to all appearances respectable, well-to-do merchants, well flourishing business in piece goods, rice or timber which hide their real occupations as traffickers in opium, cocaine, morphine and hemp drugs. These men do not handle the drugs, but leave the details to hosts of underlings. If an underling is arrested, fined and sent to jail, his principal pays his fine, gives him his salary, and supports his family while he is in prison.

"That a certain man is a smuggler is well known to the authorities," reports Mr. Anderson. "In fact the suspect will cheerfully admit it. He knows that he cannot be touched unless the contraband is found in his possession."

The chief source of protection to smugglers is the assecibility to bribery of those who are charged with the duty of preventing smuggling. They can make more money by failing to suppress smuggling than by suppressing it.

ATTEMPTING TO PROHIBIT AMERICAN LOTTERIES IN CHINA

SHANGHAI, Sept. 20.—What is said to be the first effort to apply to Americans in China the American law prohibiting lotteries is being put forth in the case of B. F. Brown, who was held for trial in the United States court for China, on a charge of violating this particular statute.

The defendant formerly published the Far Eastern Times at Harbin. In connection with a scheme to increase the circulation of this publication it was alleged that Brown supplied numbered coupons with each copy distributed and then held drawings in which certain numbers won prizes of ten yen each.

Acting on a complaint, Brown was arrested by an American consular official at Harbin. When he was brought to Shanghai he was held for trial at a hearing before U. S. Commissioner N. E. Lurton, but was permitted to sign his own bail, bond in the sum of $500 and was released.

INDIGESTION RELIEVED WITH NEW CORDIAL

Indigestion and its attendant ills such as dyspepsia, heart-burn, sour stomach, griping pains, dysentery, diarrhoea, colic, cholera morbus, chronic constipation, gas, etc., and even sick, nervous headaches are now directly traceable to disorders in the digestive organs.

The food sours before it is fully digested, thus putting into solution toxic poisons that are absorbed into the system, irritating the intestines and setting up inflammation. To avoid this, ou simply have to prevent fermentation by using Anti-Ferment.

Anti-Ferment neutralizes the acid condition of the stomach, cleanses and sweetens the bowels, soothes and heals the inflammed intestines and increases the flow of gastric juices, giving quick and certain relief. Get a bottle of Anti-Fermen from your druggist with a guarantee of satisfactory results or money refunded. It will improve your appetite, give you restful sleep and make you feel better than you ever felt in your life.—adv.

UNCOMFORTABLE AFTER MEALS?

Then Try a Pinch of Black-Draught. This White-Haired Alabama Lady Says It Helps Her.

Dutton, Ala.—In recommending Thedford's Black-Draught to her friends and neighbors here, Mrs. T. F. Parks, a well-known Jackson County lady, said:

"I am getting up in years; my head is pretty white. I have seen medicine and remedies come and go, but the old reliable came and stayed. I am talking of Black-Draught, a liver medicine we have used for years—one that can be depended upon and one that will do the work.

"Black-Draught will relieve indigestion and constipation if taken right, and I know, for I tried it. It is the best thing I have ever found for the full, uncomfortable feeling after meals.

"Sour stomach and sick headache can be relieved by taking Black-Draught. It aids indigestion, also assists the liver in throwing off impurities. I am glad to recommend Black-Draught, and do, to my friends and neighbors."

For simple, common ailments, due to disordered stomach, liver and bowels you will find Thedford's Black-Draught a useful and valuable remedy. The purely vegetable ingredients of which Black-Draught is composed gently stimulate the liver, increasing the flow of digestive juices, thereby helping to prevent or relieve constipation in an easy, natural way.

Insist upon Thedford's, the original and only genuine Black-Draught powdered herb and root liver medicine.—adv.

NEW Columbia RECORDS

Sweet Daddy!

YOUR chance to electrify the dance-bunch is right-now-to-night, for Ray Miller and his men-of-music are in again on the new Columbia Records with a couple of wallops that'll keep toes tickling long after most folks have battened-down-hatches for the night!

You'll go along, all right, with "Come Along" (I'm through with worryin'!), for it's an irresistible fox-trot that the Millerites just eat up!

Then, switch over to the far-side of the record and you draw "Two Little Wooden Shoes," another pippin fox-trot picked in the garden of good tunes and also played by Ray Miller and His Orchestra. You'll have to toss a coin to name the winner between the two. Ask your dealer for Columbia Record A-3671—75c—and get yours.

The October offering of new Columbia Records is a harvest of dee-licious music. Every one is a gem. Tear out this list and ask your dealer to play the whole works. Columbia new process Records being free from surface noise are superior to any others.

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 20, 1922

DANVILLE SCORES AGAIN.

The appointment by Judge Turner Clement of Mrs. W. T. Harris as judge of the juvenile and domestic relations court in Danville, is a happy selection and a precedent in Virginia which, we believe, will have the hearty endorsement of everyone who has known the appointee. Incidentally, it completes a trilogy which wins Danville a peculiar distinction. This city gave to the world the first woman parliamentarian—Lady Nancy Astor—it gave the State the first woman school trustee, Mrs. Archibald D. Keen, and now it presents to the Old Dominion its first woman member of the judiciary, and is further proof that Danville is up and doing and is fully abreast of the times.

Mrs. Harris is well qualified for the appointment because she is broadly cultured and has been for many years engrossed in social welfare work. It may be said that Judge Clèment had full knowledge of the mental equipment of his appointee and was governed largely by her ability to bear the responsibility of the post created by the recent act of the legislature.

There has been a growing need for the formal establishment of such courts in Virginia. In dealing with domestic distress and the application of the law to juvenile offenders the strict letter of the law is less effective than the use of sound common sense. Corrective treatment born of human sympathy and abundant kindness will be more efficacious than measuring the offense with the yardstick of the Virginia code. That was one of the motives governing the last General Assembly in providing a separate court for the trial of cases involving children. The new court will be less severe in aspect than the present court of law, it will be more a forum where the judge can enquire into cause and effect and apply the rule of common sense where in the more formal court the rules of evidence are strict and cannot be overridden.

The appointment of Mrs. Harris to the post places at the head of the new judicial department a woman who is eminently fitted for it and who accepts it at something of a sacrifice, for it is an office which carries only nominal compensation and yet makes heavy demands on service.

While Ma is hearing the children's lessons we will sit down in the Morris chair and read some romantic back-fire stuph written by Miss Kay Keen for the Philadelphia Ledger, entitled:

The Old Man's Darling!

"Think you your troubles will depart wing-footed if you but pull down the despised banner of spinsterhood and hoist that of the 'Old Man's Darling?' The verdancy of your spouse's green-backs and the tinkling lure of his gold coin shall not compensate for his pepless spine and gouty leg.

Power!

When an electrical engineer stands in front of a great waterfall he doesn't ask himself:

"I wonder if there's any power in that fall."

What he asks himself is this:

"How can I apply that power to my needs?"

He knows there's power: he knows it can be used; the only question is how to use it most effectively.

When a modern business man surveys the field he no longer asks himself whether advertising pays. His question is:

"How much can I make it pay me?"

He knows there's power in advertising: he knows it can be used in the service of any business that can serve the public.

His only question is exactly how he can turn this power most effectively to his own particular needs.

An emphatic looking lady applied for a divorce on the grounds of extreme cruelty. When pressed for evidence she remarked:

See fields of ripening grain.

The trees shall lose their verdure,
And the vines shall nod to sleep,
For summer days are waning,
Then no more the crickets creep.

The summer days are going,
And birds will leave their nest,
They builded in the maples,
When spring was at its best.

Goodbye to summer weather,
Goodbye to flowers and all,
We will miss the summer beauty,
That gives way to early fall.

Alias the Lone Wolf

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Love of

EVE DE MONTALAIS, and the desire to prove that he had not violated the hospitality of her chateau in southern France, sent

MICHAEL LANYARD, now the brilliant member of the English Secret Service, but once the notorious cracksman, the LONE WOLF, on the quest of her jewels.

They had been stolen while Lanyard was her guest recuperating from wounds inflicted by

DUPONT, a Paris Apache, whose attempted highway robbery of the women of the chateau de Montalais had been frustrated by Lanyard.

Lanyard suspects that the jewels were stolen by a band of thieves, masquerading as tourists, consisting of

WHITAKER MONK; his secretary, PHINUIT; the latter's brother, JULES, and the COUNT and COUNTESS DE LORGNES. Lanyard goes to Lyons and trails Dupont, who in turn is trailing de Lorgnes. On the Lyons-Paris express, which is bearing Lanyard, Dupont and de Lorgnes, de Lorgnes is murdered in his berth.

GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XIII

Mademoiselle the Detective

IN London, about noon of that day, Wertheimer deciphered a code message:

"Dear old bean: Please advise prefecture de police without revealing your source of information, unidentified man murdered on express stopped yesterday Hotel Terminus, Lyons, under name of Comte de Lorgnes. During entire evening before entraining he was shadowed by two Apaches, one of whom, passing as Albert Dupont, booked in same carriage with Lorgnes, but detrained Laroche six-fifteen. [An admirably succinct sketch of the physical Dupont is here deleted.] As stranger in Paris I crave passionately to review night life of great city but am naturally timid about going about alone after dark. Only society of beautiful, accomplished, well-informed and agreeable lady can put me at ease. Can you recommend one such to me by telegraph? Presume you have heard your old friend Duchemin is suspected of looting jewels of Madame de Montalais, Chateau de Montalais, near Millau. He counts on your discretion to preserve secret of his innocence pending further advices. Paul Martin here stopping Hotel Chatham. Toodle-oo.

"M. L."

A telegram from London addressed to M. Paul Martin, Hotel Chatham, Paris, was delivered late in the afternoon:

"Prefecture tipped off. Many thanks. Fully appreciate you cannot trust yourself alone in the dark. Therefore cheerfully delegating preservation your virtue while in Paris to Mlle. Althenais Reneaux, maiden lady mature charms whom I beg you will respect as you would my sister. Wishing you enjoyable intellectual evening— W."

It needed receipt of a petit-bleu, while he was dressing for dinner, to cure Lanyard of an attack of premonitory shivers brought on by recollection of the awful truth that one is never really safe in trifling with an Englishman's sense of humor.

"Dear Monsieur Martin: It is too sweet of you to remember your promise to ask me to dine the first time you came to Paris. Since you leave it to me, shall we say the Ritz, at half past seven? In case your memory for faces is poor—it has been a long time since we met, hasn't it?—I shall be wearing the conventional fast black with my very best ingenue expression; and my feather fan will be flame-colored.

"Always to you—
"ALTHENAIS RENEAUX."

Now that sounded more like . . . Mademoiselle Athenais Reneaux lived up in most gratifying fashion to the tone of her note.

She swept spiritedly into the lounge of the Ritz, a tall, fair girl, very good-looking indeed and brilliantly costumed, and placed Monsieur Paul Martin in one glance, on the instance of his calculated start of recognition.

"Paul!" she cried in lilting accents. "I'm so glad! It's been simply ages . . . And looking so well! I don't believe you've changed a bit."

"And you, Athenais, always exquisite, but today . . . Truly one has never seen you looking better."

SHE HANDED OVER HER TELEGRAM.

"Flattery," she commented. "But I love it!"

Meanwhile her gaze reviewed the lounge in one swift, searching glance, and returned to Lanyard with a droop of the lashes, signified there was no one present likely to prove dangerous.

"Flattery? To you? But impossible!"

He delighted her, and she showed it openly. But her lips said only: "Have I kept you waiting a frightfully long time, poor boy?"

"Let your appetite accuse you, Athenais."

"But I am starving!"

"Then, as I take it, nothing on earth can prevent our going in to dinner."

Lanyard had already consulted with the maitre d'hotel over the menu and the reservation as the two settled down at a table on the side of the room.

"Monsieur received a telegram this afternoon?"

"Yes, mademoiselle. And you?"

"It is here—since I am. May I see yours?"

With a gay gesture she handed over her telegram from London and took his in exchange.

The ordinary cipher of the British Secret Service was as readily intelligible to both as if the messages had been couched in open French or English.

The girl was laughing as she returned Lanyard's telegram and received her own.

"'Mature charms'!" she pouted. "'Enjoyable intellectual evening'! Oh, how depressing! And are you going to obey that injunction to treat me as somebody's sister?"

"Never in my life!"

"I like that better. And," she inquired demurely, "may one ask what are monsieur's commands?"

"First: you will continue to flirt with me as at present—outrageously."

"Even when you make it so difficult?"

"And then, if I discover an interest in people I may chance to see, you will be good enough to tell me who they are and—other details concerning their ways of life."

"Perhaps I know them. It might save time if you would give me their names."

"Le Comte de Lorgnes?"

Mademoiselle Reneaux looked blank.

"Madame la Comtesse de Lorgnes?"

"If you could describe them, perhaps—?"

"Useless, I am afraid; neither is an uncommon type."

"Are you then acquainted with a man named Phinuit—an American?"

"No."

"Mr. Whitaker Monk, of New York?"

"I met him one night, with a gay party that joined ours at breakfast at Pre-Catelan. A quaint little stupid."

"Quaint, I grant you. But hardly little, or stupid. A tall man, as thin as a diet, with a face like a comic mask of tragedy . . ."

"Paul, dear," said Athenais Reneaux more in sorrow than in anger: "somebody has been taking advantage of your trusting nature. Whitaker Monk is short, hopelessly stout, and the most commonplace person imaginable."

CHAPTER XIV

Sin in Beauty's Garb

IN no city in the world is the doctrine of go-as-you-please-but-mind-your-own-business more studiously inculcated by example than in Paris, especially in its hours of relaxation. Lanyard had not been so long an exile as to have forgotten his way about entirely, and with what was new since his time Mademoiselle Reneaux was thoroughly acquainted.

If there were anybody or thing a girl of her age—Athenais was about twenty-five—shouldn't know, she knew him, her or it; if there were any place she shouldn't go, she either went or had been there; if there were anything she shouldn't do or say or think or countenance, those things she—within limitations—did and said and thought and accepted or passed over as matters of fact and no consequence.

On the way to their table they, after a dance, were intercepted by a woman who, with two cavaliers, had been standing near the door of the restaurant. Through a rising clatter of tongues her voice cut clearly.

"Athenais! It is I—Liane."

Lanyard was inclined to think he had never seen, this side of footlights, a gown quite so daring as that which revealed the admirably turned person of the lady who named herself Liane.

At the sound of her name Athenais turned with a perfectly indicated start of surprise which she promptly translated into a little, joyful cry. The living pillar of ivory, satin and precious stones ran into her arms, embraced her ardently, and kissed both her cheeks, then releasing her, half-turned to Lanyard.

Glints of trifling malice winked behind the open interest of troubling, rounded eyes of violet. Lanyard knew himself known.

So he had sacrificed for nothing his beautiful beard!

He uttered a private but heartfelt "Damn!" and bowed profoundly as the woman, tapping Athenais on the arm with a fan crusted with diamonds, demanded:

"Present instantly, my dear, this gentleman who tangoes as I have never seen the tango danced before!"

Forestalling Athenais, Lanyard replied with a whimsical grimace: "Is one, then, so unfortunate as to have been forgotten by Madame la Comtesse de Lorgnes?"

"But monsieur is mistaken," the other stammered, biting her lip.

"Surely one cannot have been so stupid!" Lanyard apologized.

"But this is Mademoiselle Delorme," Athenais said . . . "Monsieur Paul Martin."

HELD FOR SLAYING AGED MAN

CLARA SKARIN WINBORN

OAKLAND, Cal., Sept. 20.—For one month Clara Csarin Winborn be-[illegible] a "dead man" and, according to police, she carried on the life of the man she is alleged to have slain. She wrote his letters, so the story [illegible] signed his name to them, arranged his collections and attended to business in general; consulted with his lawyer and forwarded his mail when he "went on a business trip." All this while the corpse lay in an adjoining room.

Such are the alleged details in connection with the year-old mystery over the slaying of Ferdinand Hochbrunn, wealthy recluse and realty man of Seattle, Wash.

Clara Winborn was arrested in Oakland. She refuses to talk about the case, saying simply, "I will tell my story to the jury."

Police, it is said, have a confession she is proporid tohavesignede fie she is purported to have signed, admitting the shooting and a desire to possess the dead mans property, but holding that she shot to defend her honor from the advances of the old man.

I. C. C. Issues New Service Order On Shipments

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—The Interstate Commerce Commission today issued a new service order covering preferential shipments eastward from the Mississippi and adding mine supplies, medicines, fertilizers, seeds, newsprint paper and petroleum to the list of commodities to be given priority movement. The order, effective at midnight, September 20, also permits use of open top cars, after the discharge of coal carried in them, for transportation of road, and building construction material, ore, and mine supplies.

The new order cancels and supersedes service order 213, and puts all coal shipments into the priority class. Use of open top cars for commodities other than fuel is permitted under the ruling only when their destination is in the direction in which the cars are destined for coal loading.

The order was issued, the commission explained, as a result of complaint that various commodities which, in the public interests should be handled promptly, have not been so handled by reason of certain embargoes issued by railroads during the rail and coal strikes.

"The production of bituminous coal," the commission said, in announcing its action, has increased to approximately 9,500,000 tons a week and should, with reasonable use, take care of current needs, if tonnage and new storage and waste of fuel and equipment are carefully avoided. The commission, therefore, feels that it can now relax its previous order by omitting general priorities by classes of consumers, reserving, however, the right in special cases of great emergency to direct carriers to furnish any coal mine with such open top cars as may, in the public interest, from time to time, be designated by it or its agents, therefore.

"By virtue of the general priority which is given both to the movement and use of open top casr for coal, the effect of the change now made is to advance all coal into a priroity class, instead of only these classes of consumers formerly embraced in priority designation."

"Under existing circumstances, it is thought, that the course now taken will tend to a considerable improvement in the production of coal by facilitating its movement and general distribution."

RAY IS LUCKY DRIVER

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 19.—(Associated Press.)—Nat Ray, Cleveland, today piloted two horses to victories at the local grand circuit races, winning two of the richest stakes of the entire meeting.

Behind Peter Earl, he won the horse review futurity for three-year-old trotters, which carried a purse of $8,000 and with Peter the Brewer, he took the M. & M. $5,000 stake.

Cinderella Sally—No. 3

An Insult That Caused The Worm To Turn

By Zoe Beckley

BEGIN HERE TODAY

They called her "Cinders"—the woe-begone little waif from the orphan asylum who did the kitchen work in the home of the newly rich MRS. STANLEY. Because they wouldn't use her real name,

SALLY DAWSON, the girl took offense and then they called her "impudent" and "upstart."

Then entered the son of the house, the good-natured boy who sympathized with the weeping girl. "I'll talk to mother. What's it all about, anyhow?" And then he and the girl heard the mother's icy insult: "My son is not interested in kitchen scullions."

GO ON WITH THE STORY

THE tone and the insult from Mrs. Stanley dropped like a bomb on the two in the hall below. Kitchen scullion . . .

"Mother!" the young man cried in shocked protest.

Sally herself seemed overborne for the moment. Her real reaction came deliberately. She moved to the stairwell and looked upward as the mistress of the house began to descend.

In the girl's face was a dignity not unimpressive.

"I thank you for that word, Mrs. Stanley. I shall remember it—and I think you will too."

Sally stood there without taking her eyes off her mistress as though clamping a resolution into her will. Angry as the lady Stanley was, as she faced the small Sally, she looked the less notable of the two.

"Harry," she said, "I am astonished that you feel called upon to meddle in kitchen affairs. Please keep out of this."

The young man flushed and turned to Sally.

"I'm sorry," he said simply. "Sorry for—all of this. If Mother will not ask your pardon, Sally, I will. Forgive us, please."

His manner was genuine to the point of entreaty.

Sally smiled at him, a surprisingly radiant and charming smile.

"There's nothing to forgive YOU for."

The personalness of the speech left him a little uncomfortable, a bit mixed in the emotions. His mother's rage was pure and unequivocal.

"Pack your things this instant," she cried venomously, "and never let me see your face again."

Sally smiled with one side of her mouth.

"You sha'n't," she answered in a tone that seemed very low in contrast to her mistress' storming. "—until you ask me to visit you, Mrs. Stanley."

Sally let the hall with at least an affectation of serenity. It crossed Mrs. Stanley's mind, despite her upsetness to wonder where this foundling could have acquired the bit of acting. When the girl had gone, she turned to her son:

"This comes of your mistaken kindness of manner, Harry. You only put ideas into the heads of such common—"

"Common is as common does, Mother," murmured Harry, glancing in the direction Sally had taken. And before his mother could retort, he had run up-stairs two steps at a jump.

Sally climbed to the cubicle on the top floor rear where she slept and packed her possessions in her imitation-alligator bag, put on her serge suit and little round hat, got her wages, bid goodby to the [illegible], the gardener, Cleo and Mark the Chow pups, and set out on foot for the trolley. Her thoughts were somber but steely with determination. Never again should anyone have the right to call her "kitchen scullion." She was glad she had been called that—a harsh bugle from some enemy camp calling her to battle. Very well, she would battle all right! She would fight her way out of her cinder-heap origin—

A harsh bugle-note did sound just behind her. With a start she turned to see Harry Stanley zipping along in his little imported runabout.

CRIMES I HAVE SOLVED—NO. 3

PLOT TO WIPE OUT POLICE FORCE

By Michael Fiaschetti

CALLING the bluff of a poker face led to the solution of one of the hardest cases on our records. In December, 1917, an Akron, Ohio, policeman was killed while patrolling his beat.

FIASCHETTI

Three weeks later another officer was murdered.

The authorities could find no clew.

While working on the case, two others were killed.

All the crimes had been committed in the bad part of town. In each case the murderer had stolen up behind his victim, placed a magazine pistol against his back and fired.

One night one of our men reported that there were two newcomers in a gang hangout on the lower East Side. They were said to come from Akron.

We arrested them on suspicion.

One was Lorenz Biondo, 23 years old, and the other was Tony Manfredi, 22. Both were bright and daring.

When questioned they denied knowing anything about the crime. They seemed to be above board.

We had no evidence against them. We could not hold them.

I decided to appeal to their sporting sense.

If they were innocent o any connection with the crime they had nothing to fear. So why not go back to Akron—unless they were afraid?

"Who's afraid?" shot back Biondo, with his poker face narrowing. "I'll go back any time."

Manfredi followed his lead. "So will I," he said.

We shook on it, went out to dinner, drank and had a good time.

The next morning we left for Akron.

On the train we had a great time. We played cards, swapped stories and became very friendly.

By the time we were half way across Pennsylvania, we became confidential.

Biondo said: "You're a good fellow and I might tell you a thing or two if I wanted."

More drinks, more dinner—and he wanted to.

Manfredi followed suit.

A band of six desperadoes decided to capture the reward.

Their story rivaled that of fiction.

A Sicilian named Roasario Borgia ran a disreputable house in the slums of Akron. One day his place was raided! He was indignant.

Several weeks later it was raided again. He became furious.

His anger mounted into an obsession for revenge.

He would get even with the police. So he decided to get rid of them—

By killing them off one by one.

He didn't have the nerve to do it himself, so he offered a reward of $150 to anyone killing a policeman.

That was a pretty good price for murder, for I've known of one instance in which a boy killed his own mother for five dollars!

A POLICEMAN WAS KILLED WHILE PATROLLING HIS BEAT.

They killed four men, and were ready to kill more when seeral of their number decided to blow in their earnings in New York.

That's how we got Manfredi and Biondo.

A long chase ensued. The Akron police finally rounded up the whole gang.

They all went to the chair.

DIFFERENCES ADJUSTED

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 19.—Differences between the Senate and House on bills creating a Federal fact-finding coal commission, were adjusted late today by their conference committees. The measure probably will be taken up in the House tomorrow for final action there.

The provisions in the Senate bill directing an inquiry into the whole subject of nationalization and government regulation and control was modified so that commission may recommend the "advisability of legislation having to do with government or private ownership of control of the coal industries."

INTIMATION IS DENIED

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Sept. 19.—The sudden and dramatic intimation hurled at Mrs. Augusta Tiernan by Attorney Samuel Parker in the form of a question, that her husband had previously doubted the paternity of her second child, thus causing an open break between the two, and its quick denial were the outstanding features of the second day's hearing of the case in which Mrs. Tiernan charges that Harry Poulin and not her husband, a Notre Dame law professor, is the father of her third child, ten months old.

Durham Takes Second Game Of Champ Series

HIGH POINT, N. C., Sept. 19.—The pitching of Lloyd Stitler who held High Point to three hits and no runs coupled with the heavy hitting of the entire Durham Club, accounted for a 10 to 0 victory for Gooch's men here this afternoon in the second game of the Piedmont League championship series, the opening contest yesterday having been won by the locals. Stitler was absolute master of the situation from the moment the impire cried, "playball". Three singles, all scattered, were all that Herndon's men who, hit so hard in the opening game, could get. Only once did Stitled wobble in the least and that was when he walked two men in one inning, but sharp fielding cut down Pointer Chances to score.

Opposing the crack Durham right hander was Eddie Frennick, who pitched a cool game, but his offerings were freely touched every player in the Durham line-up getting at least one safety. The attack on Frennick began in the first inning when Lee Gooch, the slugging Bull manager, connected with the ball for a circuit drive over right field fence, two runs coming in ahead of him.

The game was featured by clean fielding, not an error being chalked up, while four double plays, all of the fast variety, speeded up the pastime considerably. In one of these, Walter Dayton, Durham catcher featured. After receiving the third strike on Herndon at the bat, Dayton made a perfect peg to Resco, who caught Irby off first base. Manager Herndon also figured rather conspicuously in the double killings. After making a nice stop of Gooch's grounder in the fifth inning, he threw to second base and forced Dannielly, he then ran to the initial sack in time to receive Schmidt's return throw, retiring Gooch for the second consecutive put out. It was a fast, clean double.

Tomorrow and Thursday the two clubs play in Durham while the fifth game on Friday will be played here

MILLIONS CLEANED UP IN BASEBALL THRUOUT COUNTRY

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—Baseball pools in the junior leagues levy their greatest toll in New York, Chicago and Philadelphia.

A million dollars a week is spent in New York alone by upward of 400,000 players, according to estimates by pool agents.

New York has probably 25,000 pools, all except 100 or so being small private pools in offices and factories, and semi-private enterprises operated in cigar stores. There are four big pools.

Chicago spends about $100,000 a week in some 50 professional pools. During the last world series ticket sales in these pools totaled $450,000, police estimate.

Philadelphia baseball gamblers spend at least $50,000 a week, according to conservative estimates.

Sales in Boston keekly are placed at $15,000, in Pittsburg at $10,000. Cleveland and Detroit are in the same class, survey shows.

Operations are small in Washington, Cincinnati and St. Louis. Horse-race betting has the call in Washington and Cincinnati, while a police cleanup in St. Louis a year ago is still remembered.

In Chicago, Police Chief Charles L. Fitzmorris says 200 arrests have been made during the past season

"We find it hard to get the ring-leaders," says the Chicago chief. "Only the small fry are caught, usually agents, while the ring directors operating the pools on a national basis remain under cover."

Pool agents in New York work on 20 per cent. commission They say they usually sell about $500 worth of tickets a week each They have regular routes through office buildings and retail districts. Employes act as agents in many factories.

In a survey of one 20-story office building 10 separate pools were found in operation. In addition to those larger ones represented by agents.

Most of the 25,000 pools—the small fry—have tickets selling for 25 cents a week, with from 16 to 32 members who buy a chance on one of two major league clubs. This investment, it is estimated, totals $250,000

Fewer players in the aggregate, but with an investment of three times as much weekly, patronize the four big pools.

Most "exclusive" of these big New York pools is the Forty Second Street Pool. Tickets sell for $5 a week, the buyer blindly picking a combination of three teams out of the 32 teams in the National, American and International Leagues and the American Association. Highest combination score for the week draws a $5,000 prize, lowest $2.500.

Another big pool, name unknown, sells tickets for $2. The Lyons Pool, operated from Albany, and the Fort Erie Pool, operated from Buffalo, sells tickets for $1 in New York. Both operate elsewhere in the east and the New England states, Fort Erie tickets in some towns being only 30 cents.

Some pools distribute daily awards, the capital prize as high as $500.

Philadelphia's largest pool, known as the Sportsmen's Club sells "blind" tickets for 35 cents bearing combinations of six teams out of 24 in the National, American and International Leagues.

This pool, which has headquarters in Camden, N. J., offered $1,000 in prizes on a particular day recently: $500 for highest score, $250 second highest, $100 third highest, $50 fourth highest, and $100 for lowest score.

Twenty-five pools operated in Boston, and Police Superintendent M. H. Crowley places the players at "not more than 5,000" Some 20,000 tickets are sold weekly for 50 cents and $1, and a few at 25 cents on Eastern League teams.

In Pittsburg baseball pools have decreased, owing to raids and convictions, according to District Attorney H. H. Rowland. Ticket sales are made in secret to possibly 10,000 customers weekly.

The shoe-workers' strike, on nearly all summer, is thought to have helped to have cut down baseball pools in Cincinnati. Horse-race betting has always been more popular there, as in Washington, and also in Cleveland, where Safety Director Thomas Martinec says numerous arrests have helped to cut down pool selling.

Final Action On Tariff Measure Taken Tuesday

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19—Final legislative action on the tariff bill was taken today with adoption of the conference report by the Senate The measure now goes to President Harding and will become effective the day after he signs it. Under the law he has ten days in which to sign.

The Senate vote was 48 to 28.

Five Republicans voted against the conference report and 2 Democrats supported it. Three Republicans, Cameron, Cummins and Lenroot, who voted for the bill as amended in the Senate opposed it in the form it came in the conference.

The roll call follows:

For adoption. Republicans: Ball, Brandegee, Bursum, Capper, Colt, Curtis, Dillingham, Dupont, Edge, Earnest, France, Frelinghurst, Gooding, Hale, Hareld, Jones (Washington) Kellogg, McCormick, McCumber, McLane, McNary, Moses, Nelson, New, Newberry, Nicholson, Norbeck, Oddie, Pepper, Phillips, Rawson, Reed (Pensylvania) Shortridge, Smoot Stanfield, Sterling, Sutherland, Townsend, Wadsworth, Warren, and Watson, (Indiana—41.

Democrats Broussard and Ransdel—2.

Total 43.

Against Adoption:

Republicans: Borah, Cameron, Cummins La Follette and Lenroot—5.

Democrats: Ashurst, Dial, Fletcher, Gerry, Glass, Harrison, Heflin, Hitchock, King, McKellar, Myers, Reed (Missouri), Robinson, Sheppard, Shields, Simmons, Smith, Stanley, Swanson, Trammell, Underwood, Walsh (Mass.,) and Williams—23.

Total 28.

Treasury experts estimate that the new act will yield about $400,000,000 a year in revenue, one half from these four sources:

Sugar $87.000,000, Raw Wool $63,-000,900 Tobacco $35.000.000 and Laces and embroideries $15,000.000.

Joseph S. McCoy, actuary of the treasury, figures that in actual operation the effective equivalent ad valorems will average slightly below those in the famous Payne-Aldrich act. The average of the rates as written, however, is declared to be slightly above the average of those in the 1909 act.

Rates in some of the schedules are declared to be the highest in the history of American tariffs while those in other schedules are estimated to be lower than in any other protective act. In the highest class are placed sugar, raw wool, silk, laces and embroideries, cutlery, agricultural products, provisions, dyes, sythentic chemicals, medicinals and other products of coal tar.

The flax, hemp and jute schedule is estimated at only slightly more than that of the existing Democratic law, while the cotton schedule is declared by the experts as the lowest in any previous protective tariff. Also it is asserted, the duties on manufactured woolen articles are below those of any other similar act.

Comparatively low rates also have been written into the wood, earthenware, metal, paper and books and sundries schedules, according to these authorities. Except for the coal tar products, the chemical schedule also is estimated at below that of the Payne Aldrich measure.

This bill marks a distinct departure in American tariff making, in that the President is given broad authority over taxes at the customs houses. Upon investigation he may increase or decrease any rate in tobacco by fifty per cent, should that be necessary to equalize the difference in the cost of production at home and abroad.

In addition the executive may declare American valuation as the basis of assessing ad valorem duties. In the event that such a basis were used, that such duties could not be increased, but the experts estimates that the actual change from the foreign valuation to the American Valuation would bring about an average increase of 100 per cent., in the rates After declaring such valuation, the President could, however, reduce any duty by 50 per cent. The tariff commission is authorized to assist the President in carrying out those so-called flexible tariff provisions, and would make exhaustive investigations and hold hearings at which all interested parties would be given opportunity to submit evidence and argument

Final Senate argument today was featured by an assault on the measure by Senator Underwood, of Alabama, the Democratic leader, and co-author with Senator Simmons, Democrat, North Carolina of the existing tariff for revenue law and a defense by Senator Smoot, of Utah, ranking Republican on the finance committee. Mr. Smoot had a prominent part in the writing of the new act.

John T. Adams, chairman of the Republican National Committee, declared tonight, in a formal statement, that enactment of this tariff would mark the beginning of another era of good times in the United States.

Pistol Used In Murder Of Twain Has Been Found

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Sept. 19.—(Associated Press.)—Discovery of the pistol with which the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall, rector of the Church of St. John the Evangelist, and his young choir leader, Mrs. Eleanor Reinhardt Mills, were slain, brought the investigation of the mysterious double murder near its close tonight.

While officials working on the case, refused to repeat earlier optimistic predictions of an arrest within a given time, it was learned that the custodian of the small county jail at Somerville, has been instructed to prepare for the receipt of at least one prisoner.

County Detective David, of Middlesex, who found the pistol—a black automatic—refused to say where he had gotten it, or whom he suspected of being its owner, ownership of the weapon was being traced, he said, and an arrest might be expected as soon as that procedure had been completed. Earlier in the day detectives had come into possession of a woman's handkerchief, pierced with what appeared to be bullet holes. The handkerchief had been picked up near the spot on the abandoned Phillips Farm in Somerset county, where the bodies of the rector and Mrs. Mills were found. Ownership of this handkerchief, if it can be established, may furnish valuable evidence in support of the theory that a man and a woman, together surprised the minister and Mrs. Mills and that one of the duo slew them after a struggle between the two women.

Nearly all day long—save for a brief respite while they attended the simple funeral of Mrs. Mills—the slain woman's husband, James Mills, and her daughter, Charlotte, were closeted with officials in Prosecutor Stickler's office, undergoing a minute examination. When they were dismissed, shortly after four o'clock, Assistant Prosecutor Toolahd and Detective David said Mills was "definitely out of it" and was under no suspicion, whatever.

Mrs. Hall, wealthy widow of the slain man, and her brother, William Stevens, had been summoned to appear after Mills and his daughter, but they later were informed they need not come until they were communicated with again.

When examination of this pair is resumed, it is expected that Mrs. Hall and "Willie"—as he is commonly known—will be quizzed especially as to their movements last Thursday night and early Friday morning. It was in this period that the slayings were accomplished.

Mrs. Hall was to be asked what she was doing at the Pennsylvania Station between one and two o'clock Friday forenoon. Remsen Comenhaven, lawyer, told the authorities today that he had seen Mrs. Hall come to the station "somewhat disheveled", look about eagerly for a few moments and then depart.

Grand juries of both Middlesex and Somerset counties were prepared by the presiding judges today to receive evidence in connection with the slayings. This was because it had not been definitely established in which county the killing occurred. Although the bodies were found in Somerset it was generally believed by officers they were carried there after death.

SCORE KILLED IN RAIL WRECK

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 19.—(Associated Press.)—Twenty persons, among whom are thought to be several Americans, were reported killed and a large number injured in a railroad wreck of a Laredo-bound train which left Mexico City last night, at a village near Queretaro.

Spreading rails, due to the heavy rains which fell recently, are supposed to have caused the accident. The list of the victims is unavailable here.

The train was preceded by a military escort train. When the latter was ditched due to the bad rails, the passenger train was unable to stop in time and crashed into the other, killing the engineer and fireman instantly. Relief trains have left Mexico City for the scene of the disaster.

FINAL ACTION ON RIVERS AND HARBORS BILL

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—Final legislative action on the $50,000,000 rivers and harbors development bill was taken late today by the Senate which agreed with the House to strike out provisions for the purchase of the Cape Cod and Dismal Swamp canals. The bill now goes to the President.

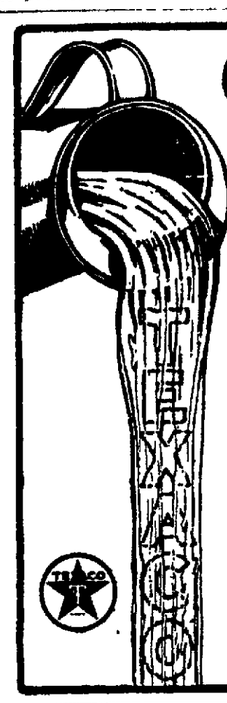

The Senate action was taken without a record vote after Chairman Jones of the Commerce Commissioner, had announced that it would be useless to send the measure back to conference.

The provisions carried authority to pay $9,000,000 for the Cape Cod canal and $500,000 for the Dismal Swamp property.

MRS. OLESON HITS CAMPAIGN TRAIL

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 19.—Whatever else she may accomplish in her campaign for the United States senatorship, Mrs. Anna D. Olesen, Democratic nominee, will be well known to Minnesota at large when the November election day rolls around.

Easily the pacemaker in the three-cornered contest for the office now held by Frank B. Kellog, Minnesota's junior senator, Mrs. Olesen has just entered on the second phase of her campaign, which will not end until the day before election.

For six weeks she traveled over the state in a small automobile, donated by friends, and now after a rest, she again has taken to the highways for further intensive campaigning

During the first six weeks of her campaign for the fall election—she also campaigned before the June 18 primary—she visited ninety-five small cities and towns in forty counties, delivering an address in each municipality.

On this extensive trip she covered more than 5,000 miles. She was accompanied by her husband, Peter Olesen, superintendent of Cloquet city schools and her 14-year-old daughter, Mary, who alternated at the wheel.

Mrs. Olesen is enthusiastic over the reception she has received. When she started out, she told the Associated Press she thought she would "be doing well if she talked to fifty people at each meeting." Instead, she has been heard by crowds many times that number, some of them turning out early in the morning or meeting her late at night.

FIVE BODIES OF MINE VICTIMS BROUGHT OUT

JACKSON, Calif., Sept. 19.—(By The Associated Press.)—Five bodies of miners, entombed 22 days by a fire in the Argonaut Gold Mine, were brought to the surface today. The United States Bureau mine crew, wrapped the bodies in canvas where they were found last night in the 4,350 foot level of the Argonaut and carried them through the Kennedy mine adjoining. Three of the dead were identified. The work of bringing out the 47 victims of the fire and the poisonous gases will continue until all have been recovered.

A coroner's jury will be sworn in tomorrow and an inquest probably will be held Thursday. It is not expected the responsibility for the disaster will be fixed.

There was no demonstration when the rescue crews appeared at the mouth of the Kennedy shaft with their humanburdens. A check of the names of the dead showed seven were American born, twenty in Italy, thirteen in Jugo-Slavia and four were of Spanish or Mexican ancestry. Others could not be checked.

The state compensation fund is expected to pay about $100,000 to the dependents of the mine disaster. In addition the state allows $100 for each buriel and the Argonaut Company has added $25 in each case.

E. A. Stent, vice president of the Argonaut Company, said he felt the fire was unavoidable and his compand had done everything possible to rescue the men. He declared he would welcome an official investigation.

Allan Ryan Starts Again In Wall Street

NEW YORK, Sept 19—Allan A. Ryan, son of Thomas Fortune Ryan, who filed a petition in voluntary bankruptcy last July with liabilities of $18,000,000, laid the foundation yesterday for a fresh start in the business world by filing incorporation papers in Albany for the establishment of a new firm dealing in stocks and bonds, to be known as Allan A. Ryan Company, Inc The new firm will have a capitalization of 50,000 shares of no par value, 2,500 shares of Class A, and 2,500 shares of Class B stock. The active capital of the firm will be $50,000. The incorporators were George F. Lewis, personal attorney for Mr. Ryan, H. B. Tibbets and W. Rand Jr. The attorneys were Guthrie, Jerome, Rand Kressel. 37 Wall Street. Mr. Lewis, when asked as to the plans of Mr. Ryan, said that little could be said at this time. He added that a meeting would be held soon for the purpose of organization and the election of a Board of Directors, at which an announcement covering all details would be made public.

The bankruptcy petition of Mr. Ryan in July was the result of the famous Stutz corner in the Spring of 1920, when he obtained control of virtually the entire Stutz capital stock and forced the price up from $100 to $391 a share on the New York Stock Exchange. The Board of Governors struck the shares from the trading list, leaving no market for the Ryan holdings. This entangled his affairs to such an extent that it was necessary to appoint a banking committee to take over his estate for the purpose of liquidation.

The banks and trust companies which had made loans to Mr. Ryan sold all his collateral at public auction shortly after the petition in bankruptcy was filed. While Mr. Ryan's affairs are still in the hands of the court under the bankruptcy petition, Mr. Lewis said that he is free to make plans for the future pending adjudication or discharge in the pending proceedings.

BURGLARS TAKE CASH REGISTER

RICHMOND, Sept. 19.—Boldly entering the front door of Shirkey's Pharmacy at 712 N. Sheppard Street, thieves last night carried away about $1,500 in money and property, the latter including a cash register weighing several hundred pounds and worth about $900. Razors, soaps, chewing gum, cigarettes and stamps were among the articles the marauders stole. H. G. Shirkey, the proprietor of the store, is of the opinion that an auto or truck was used to carry away the plunder, especially as the cash register was taken bodily. The cash register, Mr. Shirkey says, contained only about $50 in cash, as he was in the habit of removing most of the money at night. Some of the money taken had been brought in by gas customers who paid their bills there.

A chisel and screw-driver were found beside the cash register showing that the thieves evidently made efforts to open it before resorting to the more difficult expedient of removing it bodily. The police were notified and are today at work on the case. Headquarters Detectives, under the direction of Lieutenant Bryant, are making an investigation.

Two In Elwell Case Married In June

GREENWICH, Conn., Sept. 19.—Victor Von Schlegel, aged 43, of New York City, was married on June 15 to Elly Hope Anderson, aged 23, of New York City, daughter of Charles A. Anderson by Justice of the Peace William S. M. Fiske, it was learned today.

Victor Von Schlegel and Elly Hope Anderson were among the many figures who were made prominent in the Elwell case. Their connection with this mystery was due to a series of coincidences which occurred on the night before the killing of Joseph Rowne Elwell, the turfman and bridge expert, who was slain in his home in West Seventieth Street on the morning of June 11, 1920.

The night before his death Elwell dined on the roof of the Ritz-Calton with a party which included Miss Viola Kraus, the former wife of Von Schlegell, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lewisohn and Octavio Figureoa, the latter being a South American journalist.

This party was reported to be a divorce party," the celebration of the decree which Miss Krauss had obtained from Von Schlegell. This was denied by those at the party. The dinner occurred, however, on the day when the decree was made permanent.

The coincidence was that Von Schlegell also dined that evening on the roof of the Ritz. He was accompanied by a young woman in a dark costume, who, in the idiom of the Elwell case, was known for several days as "the woman in black." Later it became known that she was Miss Elly Hope Anderson of Minneapolis, who was on a visit to this city for a few days.

Elwell danced that night with the newly-divorced wife of von Schlegell and Von Schlegell danced with "the woman in black." According to police account, von Schlegell greeted Elwell with a hearty "Hello, Joe," but was either cut by Elwell or received very coldly. Elwell and his party left the Ritz for Ziegfeld's Midnight Frolic. Soon before 1 o'clock the other four members of his party entered a taxicab, but Elwell walked off alone. What took place during the several hours that he lived thereafter has never been known. He was found seven hours later in a small room off the hall of the first floor with a fresh bullet wound through the head and he died a few minutes later. Not the slightest light has ever been thrown on this tragedy.

As a race track man, a gambler and a man much given to attention to women, Elwell had relations with hundreds of people. Motives were imagined by hundreds of persons and scores were questioned by the police.

Victor von Schlegell had driven a machine to Atlantic City on the morning when Elwell was found dead. He was an official in a tire concern and was attending a convention. After questioning the members of the Lewisohn party and others, the police sent for von Schlegell. Not finding him at his apartment or at his office, they started a search. Finally getting in touch with him, they questioned him at length. Assistant District Attorney John T. Dooling questioned him repeatdly, as he did a score or more of others. District Attorney Swann finally made a statement that von Schlegell had accounted for every moment of his time. Von Schlegell himself made no protest, saying it waas clear that the police and prosecutor could only proceed by eliminating everybody and that he was conscious of his curious position in the matter.

Norfolk Doctor Held In Jail

NORFOLK, Va, Sept. 19.—Mrs. Mary F. Parker, nurse, signed a sworn statement today that Dr. B. C. Kellam performed an illegal operation on Miss Nettie Fisher, Cape Charles girl, in his house.

Dr. Kellam and Mrs. B. L. Hammack, keeper of the boarding house, are being held on a charge of murder, following the death of Miss Fisher last Wednesday in Protestant Hospital.

To Use Statement At Inquest.

The statement of Mrs. Parker, made to detectives today, will be used in the inquest in the Fisher case Wednesday. Mrs. Parker is being held as a material witness, as is Estellee Murdock, colored maid in the Hammack boarding house.

Mrs. Parker's statement set forth that she had importuned Dr. Kellam to take Miss Fisher to a hospital, but he had declined to do so until shortly before she died.

Treated By Jail Physicians.

Both Dr. Kellam and Mrs. Hammack, who have been confined in the city jail since last Saturday, are in a highly nervous condition and are under treatment of the jail physicians. Their composure, which was marked, left them shortly after the first hearing on the case, when they were held in jail without bail

A warrant has been issued for the arrest of a man in Cape Charles, the home of Miss Fisher.

Relief Question In Smyrna Is Very Complicated

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 18—Admiral Bristol, American High Commissioner at Constantinople informed the state department today that he deferred his recommendations as to relief for refugee at Smyrna pending the outcome of the negotiations with Mustapha Kemal Pasha, the Turkish leaders for protections of Greek and allied ships to enter the harbor and take off the refugees in need.

Captain Hepburn, representing Admiral Bristol at Smyrna and the allied naval officers there are conducting the negotiations with the Turkish Nationalist authorities, the advisors to the department said. The number of reefugees in Smyrna still to be cared for was estimated at 150,000 but relief measures at Mudina and other points, Admiral Bristol said had ameliorated conditions.

The high commissioner in reply to the department request of last week that he forulate a plan of relief, concurred in the department judgement that the measures necessary were of to great scope for private charity to meet the situation. He also said it was believed that the plan action must include designation by the allied governments of points to which refugees from Smyrna should be evacuated in order that adequate preparations could be made. American relief, he advised the department should be confined to Anatolia, in assisting refugees during evacuation

School Girl Saves Five From Death

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., Sept. 19.—Sixteen-year-old Catherine Doty and five other persons, three of them children, were passengers in a closed automobile that was crowded off the Wilmington Road by another car over a thirty-foot embankment into the Ausable River late last night. When the car hit the river the top broke off and the glass sides held the rushing waters from the occupants.

Catherine, an expert swimmer, seized Freda Vidaver, an infant, and carried her to shore. Then she returned and took off Yetta Vidaver, a child. On her third trip through the waters she rescued Helen Doty, her younger sister. When the children were saved she returnede to the wreck and helped M. Vidaver, driver, and his wife, both injured, to the shore.

Vidaver told the police he was too excited to notice the driver of the car he claims pushed him off the bank into the river. "I have the license number," said Catherine quietly, and from he wet dress she pulled a piece of birch bark upon which she had written the number from memory with a pencil borrowed from a motorist who rushed the party to Lake Placid. The police are communicating with Plattsburg, which is said to be the home of the driveer they seek.

Vidaver suffered a broken arm, while his wife was badly cut and bruised. The children with the exception of Freda Vidaver, who was cut about the head, were unharmed.

—Mrs. C. L. Martin leaves this morning for Lynchburg, where she will spend a couple of days attending the Billy Sunday meeting.

Found Herself No Old Man's Darling

Girl Wife Beats Annulment Suit of Husband, 65, Who Called Her Extravagant.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Mrs. Lewis W. Boynton, formerly bookkeeper and secretary for a large automobile corporation in the Bedford district of Brooklyn, has beaten an action brought by her husband for an annulment of their marriage. Justice Morschauser dismissed the suit yesterday

Mrs. Boynton is eighteen. She is attractive and had several suitors. Boynton operates a line of taxicabs, is a director of the Brooklyn Trust Company and reported wealthy He is sixty-five. His business brought him to the office where Mrs. Boynton was employed about a year ago and he courted her ardently.

The two went to the City Hall in Manhattan last Oct 21 and were married there They then went to Boynton's summer home at Kingston and later lived in Brooklyn.

The married life of Mrs. Boynton was not happy and she left her husband Nov 6 Two months ago Boynton sued for annulment, alleging fraud in that Mrs. Boynton had represented herself as the daughter of Frank Koehl, an automobile dealer, of Brooklyn, though really his stepdaughter.

The trial before Justice Morschauser brought out that Koehl married Mrs Boyntons mother when the daughter was an infant and she always understood that he was her father She did not learn the truth until after the suit was brought Boynton testifed that he was greatly surprised by his wifes extravagant ideas of living. Mrs. Boynton testified that she did not have extravagant habits, but wanted to live as became the wealth of her husband.

Mrs Boynton is now living in Jamaica with her mother

Plenty Of Canned Goods On Market

By J. C ROYLE

NEW YORK Sept 19—The American householder can buy a new can opener and use it freely without serious depletion of his pocketbook through the coming fall and winter. The great staple articles of food which are packed or preserved and which play a prominent part in the daily sustenance of the United States, give no evidence of any marked advance in price and in general may be expected to remain at present or lower levels.

This conclusion is based on telegraphic reports received within the last twenty-four hours from experts in every big producing and packing section of the country. Packs of canned foods in nearly every center are running heavily in excess of those of 1921 The holdover stocks of that year are not yet entirely disposed of and there certainly will be no scarcity of the greater number of varieties of canned fruits, vegetables or milk in the next year. There may be overproduction.

This general situation does not apply to some individual lines in which, from various causes, packs are known to be short. In this category are cherries, Hawaiian pineapple and the higher grades of California peaches and apricots in which stronger prices may be expected

The railroad car shortage has placed an important part in the canned food situation. Farmers have been unable to market a large amount of produce which they counted on selling fresh and have disposed of it to canners in their own vicinities.

Packers announced opening prices from 10 to 25 per cent. in advance of those of 1921, but met strong resistance from retailers and consumers, who steadfastly refused to buy. As a consequence prices came down in many sections. This trend was made possible by somewhat lower cost of canning cases, labels and lower prices paid to growers.

There is pressure to sell lower grades of canned peaches and apricots in California and there is also price cutting to move little known brands, but prices are holding firm on the short pack better grades. The available supply of salmon is less than at this time last year and jobbers have bought conservatively and sold close. Prices for tuna and other California fish packs are unsettled owing to keen competition and higher prices demanded by fishermen.

Unsettlement in the canned goods situation also prevails in the Pacific Northwest, according to telegrams from Seattle. Although stocks are greatly depleted, prices are low and there is little demand. Canned salmon packs are on a par with last year and prices likewise.

The packs in the Northwestern states in general are ten per cent above the average, St Paul reported today. The price tendency is downward, but the decline will be small because the production cost line has already been approached. Minnesota's corn pack is short, however and the amount of beans for canning has been cut down by protracted hot weather

Canners in the Middle West, according to word from Chicago, are confident they can dispose of the entire output of the 1922 season at prices now being quoted Wholesalers at last are showing real interest in that section, but there is no intention of canners to boost prices Retail grocers who have referred buying now are convinced that nothing is to be gained by waiting for further reductions. Prices are lower than those of 1921 for all the great staples except canned peas.

Canned goods hold a firm position in the South. New Orleans states, and prices are steady with an abundant supply of shrimps and a heavy oyster pack in prospect Increases in price, however, are not believed to be imminent.

Reports from Boston assert that there is a substantial carry-over from the 1921 New England corn pack, which has counter-balanced the decrease in the pack this season. Maine sardines are weak, but canned lobsters and crabs are in demand at steady prices.

Indictations point to a steady market in the Middle Atlantic states, a Philadelphia expert declares There has not been a heavy pack of staples, but the quality is slightly below normal. Buying pressure would cause an advance, but no such pressure is in evidence.

SOUTHERN RY. TO RESTORE TWO OF ITS TRAINS TODAY

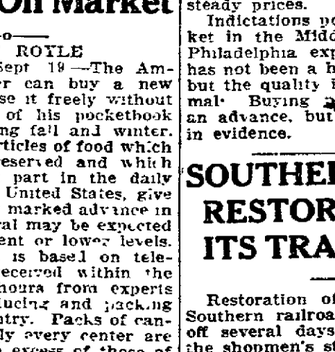

Restoration of two trains on the Southern railroad which were taken off several days ago on account of the shopmen's strike, was announced last night by local officials, the schedule being effective today. Train number 135 and number 10 will be restored to their regular schedules today Both of these trains run between Washington and Danville. Train number 35 will discontinue making local stops, made necessary when other trains were taken off Thirty-five, beginning today, will run on its regular schedule and will not make the smaller stops.

It was also announced that on the Warrenton branch of the Southern trains number 310 and 311 will also be restored.

ANATOLIA WANTE NO MORE AMERICAN SCHOOLS

CONSTANTINOPLE. Sept. 20.—according to the newspaper Tevhid Efkair, the official organ of the Kemalists, the council of ministers has refused to grant any further permission for Americans to establish schools in Anatolia.

This measure does not in any way affect the existing American colleges at Tarsus and Marsivan, and other missionary schools in the interior.
